Penn State Alumni Society Holds Meeting, Pasto Honored, Hayes At Government Day

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ROCK SPRING (Centre Co.) - The new dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Dr. Robert Steele, gave his first college report; Dr. Jerry Pasto, founder and benefactor of the Pasto Agricultural Museum, received an unexpected commendation in the form of a resolution, and Samuel Hayes, Jr., Pennsylvania agriculture secretary, reiterated the Ridge Adminstration's support for agriculture. These were among the noteworthy events at the College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society's annual meeting, and the Government Day luncheon held in the special events building at Ag Progress Days, Tuesday and Wednesday.

At the Alumni Society's meeting Steele said, "This is my first experience at Ag Progress Days. I'm very impressed. We are grateful for the alumni involvement and interest in the activities of the university and college. The support of the alumni is so critical to the success of what we do as a college.

"Coming from Wisconsin, I noticed Pennsylvania is really recognized nationally and internationally as one of the very best. Look-

Leadman Daughter Champion At Kutztown Fair

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) - A tall Leadman daughter became the grand champion of the Kutztown Fair Holstein open show, Thursday. Topping the five-year-old class, Daview Leadman Macy was shown by Erica Davis, Kutztown. The reserve grand champion was the first place dry cow, Reu-Hel Gabriel Surf shown by Trisha Geist, Mertztown. Both these champions were also top in the youth division.

Jason Troutman, Mohrsville, had the junior champion of both the open and junior divisions with Reu-Hel Bellwood Oco-ET, a senior calf. The reserve junior champion in the open show was the intermediate calf owned by Philip Werley, Hamburg. The reserve junior champion in the youth division was the junior calf owned by Jessica Luckenbille, Bernville.

Both the premier breeder and exhibitor went to Stumpland Farm, owned by John and Rita Stump,

Precision Ag Tools Very Precise, Perhaps Practical

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — "Just because you can do something, doesn't mean you should," is one of the recommendations from Penn State researchers working to understand the application and relevance of "precision agriculture" equipment for Pennsylvania farmers.

Penn State researchers and extension staff presented an overview and explanation on the equipment and how it is used and what it can do, this week during Ag Progress Days at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center in Rockspring.

What they weren't able to explain was how the equipment and approach to farming benefits the average Pennsylvania farmer.

But, the location and data collection equipment, as well as the software programs that can convert the data into color computer maps with the ability to overlay maps for comparisons, has been used by Midwestern farmers for some time and by commercial crop variety researchers.

The question of whether it has practical application for the Pennsylvania farmer remains to be seen.

That is because the difference between using the precision agri-

Research Indicates Planting Depth Crucial To Good Corn Stands

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Whether there's a drought in store for the season or not, corn growers should know the proper seed planting depth. If they don't, there could be big variations in standability and yield.

Penn State studies prove true, even during a drought, an old rule of thumb: if planting corn early, choose a shallower depth.

If planting late, plant deeper.

For corn planted only a week before Ag Progress Days, the "worst stands came from corn planted too shallow," said Mark Antle, research technician with Penn State's Department of Agronomy.

Antle reviewed some of the work on a demonstration test plot Wednesday in front of the Crops and Soils Tent at this year's Ag Progress Days.

The plot size, measuring 6 rows at 15 feet long, studied six different planting depths, ranging from one-half inch to 2½ inches. Corn used was Pioneer 3525, a 105-day medium-season variety using a no-till, two-row corn planter.

Antle indicated the effects of planting this late in the season and compared the stands. It was clear that the best row was planted at approximately 2½ inches.

The test proved that growers "need to check planting depth carefully," Antle said. Growers need to adjust planting depth to time of planting and be careful not to plant too deeply or too shallowly.

The reason? Early plantings require warmth, and the moisture is usually readily available near the surface. Corn needs ready access to moisture. Late in the season, too shallow planting depths deny access of the seed to moisture.

This year proved especially challenging for growers who were trying to get the crop in while temperatures remained cool and in between rains. In many parts of the state, the season is short enough. Depending on soil type and land layout, Antle has seen some growers who planted shallowly early on into cool, wet soil — and, as a result, corn stands varied greatly.

At planting time for the test plot early last week, conditions were hot, but rain arrived promptly and the corn "came up real fast," Antle indicated.

Growers need to "get off the tractor and take a look" at how deep the planter is putting down the corn. "Don't go on the settings you made last year to the planter. Dig around, scratch around," he said, to see planting depth frequently when planting.

Antle noted that growers also need to properly fine-tune the planter and make adjustments as necessary.

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids turned lower after USDA's Wheat production report raised their U.S. wheat production estimate to 2.53 billion bushels. Corn bids jumped sharply higher as USDA lowered the US corn producion estimate to 9.276 billion bushels. Soybean bids were mostly higher on sharp corn advances. However, record US soybean producion estimates limited gains. Wheat 1 to 8 cents lower. Corn 9 to 15 cents higher. Sorghum 12 to 18 cents higher. Soybeans 6 to 22 cents higher. All wheat production is placed at 2.53 billion bushels, up 4 percent from the last forecast and 11 percent more than in 1996. Thhe U.S. yield is now forecast at 39.9 bushels per acre. This is up 1.6 bushels per acre from last month to a new record high. The final winter wheat production is forecast at 1.86 billion bushels, up 4 percent from last month and 26 percent higher than 1996. The yield is forecast at a record high 44.6 bushels per acre. Hard red winter wheat production is up 5 percent from July due to higher yields in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Nebraska. Corn production is forecast at 9.28 billion bushels, virtually un- changed from last year but up 26 percent from 1995.. Yields are ex- pected to average 125.3 bushels per acre, down 1.8 bushels from a year ago. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 74.0 million acres, up 1 per- cent from 1996. Soybean production is forecast at a record 2.74 billion bushels, up 15 percent from 1996 and 9 percent above the 1994 record year. Yield is forecast at 39.3 bushels per acre, 1.7 bushels above last year, but 2.1 bushels below the record yield in 1994. Area for harvest is estimated at 69.8 million acres.

Over 100 Bu/A of wheat and counting.

Thanks to Hoffman, it's been a record harvest in central Pennsylvania.

Hoffman 95 Brand wheat is making quite a name for itself in central Pennsylvania.

Planting this adaptable, hardy variety, many farmers here harvested record wheat yields this summer—with documented production levels of over 100 bushels per acre and top test weights of more than 60 lbs. per bushel.

As central Pennsylvania farmers have discovered, its excellent standability makes Hoffman 95 Brand wheat easy to combine. It also provides strong disease resistance for maximum yield and grain quality.

Already a top-seller for Hoffman Seeds, Hoffman 95 Brand wheat is sure to tip the scales next season, too. Ask your Hoffman Seeds' dealer about the yield potential of Hoffman wheat varieties for your farm. Or call us at 800/776-7929 or visit our web site at www.hoffmanseeds.com.

After all, records were made to be broken.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

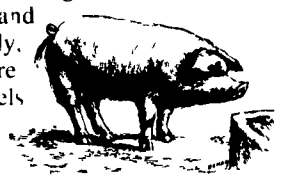
FULL STURGEON MOON, AUG. 18.

PEARLS BEFORE SWINE

Like casting pearls before swine, early Americans used to feed caviar to their pigs before learning that the fish eggs found in the "poor folks' diet" of sturgeon were the same delicate roe that could be imported from Russia By the mid-1800s, American sturgeon was beginning to find its place on the gourmet's menu, and the roe was being salted and packed as caviar Previously, the same tasty morsels were also used for fish bait for eels and perch, and for common compost



The gods do not deduct from man's allotted span the hours spent in fishing.

– Babylonian proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

TERIYAKI GRILLED FISH

Marinade:
1/3 cup tamari soy sauce
1/3 cup vegetable oil
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger
1/4 cup apple juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar

2 pounds fish fillets
chopped scallions, to garnish

Mix marinade ingredients, pour over fish, and chill for at least an hour Grill the fish, basting occasionally with the marinade, or bake in a greased pan at 350° F for 20 minutes Garnish with scallions and serve over rice

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Thunder after midnight means the day will be lowery.

If the 24th of August be fair and clear, then hope for a prosperous autumn that year.

Dry August and warm does harvest no harm.

Ag Education Provides Foundation For Life

If you are an ardent reader of Lancaster Farming, it is assumed that you already know that we hold agricultural education to be a much broader and encompassing topic than what non-agricultural people may refer to as, "That stuff the farm kids do instead of regular school work."

Agricultural education is cultural education.

It is not a religion, but it is a way of life. That's what a culture is.

When people ask, "What culture are you?" they frequently are referring to the birth place of a person's ancestors. That isn't quite all of it.

A "culture" is the body of information and skills that a group of people hold in common, and from which they draw upon to make decisions, not only to survive, but also to determine appropriate clothing, food, entertainment and thought.

The culture is the context within which a people communicate, think, and conduct their day-to-day lives, as well as their special moments.

For us, agriculture is a culture with a specific context — nurturing life.

(If the basis of a culture isn't agricultural, then the basis is predation.)

But how can we spread the word that agricultural education must be expanded; infused once again, though in modern terms, as the context for the individual academic disciplines?

We must, apparantly, be candid, enduring and staunch.

Even while patiently explaining that this great capitalistic democracy we enjoy, this best-place-on-earth to-live, all happens because it was and continues to be built upon a foundation made of blocks of agricultural endeavors.

State Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes Jr. recently talked to a group of agricultural education leaders from five states participating in an agricultural education outlook consortium in Hershey. It was sponsored by the FFA Foundation Inc. with a grant from the Kellog Foundation.

The purpose of the meeting was for ag education leaders to attempt to envision the future of agriculture and how agricultural education can remain relevant and what the ag ed system would have to change in order to deliver the education that people need.

Part of the challenges identified was figuring out how to educate the nonfarming majority of people to their own agriculture.

From there, it would seem to be easier to convince them of the truth — that farming and agriculture are essential to create and maintain a safe, secure and prosperous community of people.

"We must not let agriculture become an offshore enterprise," Hayes said.

Why? For several reasons, not the least of which is security — it is vital that for any form of government to stand up to challenges, it must be able to defend itself; it can't defend itself if it doesn't control its own food supply.

Secretary Hayes said he considers agriculture an essential element of national defense; as well as Pennsylvania's greatest economic hope.

We agree. But we would add, and we are sure he agrees, it is an essential element of everything we are and want to be — nurturers of life.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Look At Feed Supplies

According to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, the recent rains came just in time to save many of our feed crops Even with these rains the drought has already left its impact Hay and pasture yields have been reduced greatly It looks like corn yields will be reduced by 25 per cent or more Hay crop silage and corn silage is in short supply or depleted on many farms Fortunately though for farmers feeding grain, feed grain prices are lower than last year Now is a good time to lock in grain supplies and prices If you can find good quality forages and alternative feeds consider locking them in Work closely with your lender and with your nutrition and financial advisors.

To Feed Your Good Cows

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, advises to take measures to stretch your feed supplies Feed the best feed to the best cows. Sell unprofitable cows and excess heifers. The worst mistake you can make would be to underfeed your good cows, your dry cows and your bred heifers Many dairy farmers need to produce 40 to 60 pounds of milk per cow per day to break even The milk you produce above this break-even level is the cheapest milk you will produce. This is a result of all the overhead and basic operating costs being paid for by the first 40 to 60 pounds

About the only cost of producing this extra milk is the cost of the extra feed to produce it. Each additional pound of dry matter intake should generate about two and half pounds of milk. This equates to about $2.50 to $3.00 return for each additional feed dollar. When you pull feed away from cows to cut costs, you also pull away those extra pounds of the cheapest milk. That's your profit margin! Protect it. Do not short change the good cows. If you do you will also be short changing yourself.

To Look At The Competition

Recent article I read compared dairy production in Pennsylvania to California. There dairy farmers have developed several strategies that have increased profits. Debt structure is a key factor. They base herd size on how cows they can milk in 24 hours. The fixed cost of the most expensive building (milking parlor) is spread over as many income producing units (cows) as possible. They contract out heifer raising. Contracting is often cheaper than building a heifer barn while increasing the amount of forages available to the milking herd and reducing nutrient management concerns.

California farmers are using hired labor to milk and perform other tasks. This is specialized labor with job descriptions and good pay and benefits

With more price volatility coming to the dairy industry, farmers will need to keep capital investments low, productivity high, concentrate on what they do best and contract out services that other people can do better at a lower cost.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SOMETHING BETTER
August 17, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 11:1-40
Devotional Reading:
Romans 4:1-15

I am a clipper of cartoons. Over the years I have assembled a whole file folder of cartoons that have made me both laugh and think more deeply about life in general and my life in particular.

One cartoon that I have had in my collection for at least 15 years was one from the "Frank & Ernie" series. A man is holding a sign that reads: "THE MEEK SHALL INHERIT THE EARTH!" And Frank says to Ernie — or is it the other way around? — "They'll have to make a better offer than that!"

What makes that cartoon so profound for me is the fact that, unlike Frank and Ernie, there are lots of people who would settle for inheriting the earth. Earthly riches, earthly power, earthly enjoyments — they believe that this is all there is to life: "What you see is what you get."

I call this "materialism" but call it what you like, the reality is the same — very frightening" Why? Because many of those who see nothing beyond the five senses and the power of reason have already sensed that what they see in life is not enough. No wonder the world is in such a moral and spiritual malaise today. We have let material things become our whole world and are discovering that these things are not enough to make life worthwhile. Frank and Ernie are right: "They'll have to make a better offer than that!"

A BETTER OFFER

Many people grow desperate when they begin to suspect that life can't really make a better offer. Essentially, if you live only on the basis of what you can see, life is hopeless and unfair. But Hebrews is telling us that the basis of a meaningful life is to be found in what lies beyond our sight. "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen" (11:1). It is our trust in God that empowers us to make sense out of this earthly existence.

This is also what C.S. Lewis tells us, when he says, "If you read history you will find that the Christians who did most for the present world were just those who thought most of the next." We function best in this world when we are convinced there is more to existence than the world. "The Apostles, themselves," Lewis reminds us, "who set on foot the conversion of the Roman Empire, the great men who built up the Middle Ages, the English Evangelicals who abolished the Slave Trade, all left their mark on Earth, precisely because their minds were occupied with Heaven."

Essentially, the question is whether you live by the promises of God. These promises, Hebrews tells us, are things that we cannot see and, in fact, may never see in this life. The writer of Hebrews lists one scriptural hero after another who lived on promises they never saw fulfilled: Abel, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Gidon, Barak, Sampson, Jepthah, David, Samuel and the prophets. On the strength of what they hoped for but could not see, they did mighty things for God: "conquered kingdoms, enforced justice, received promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched raging fire, escaped the edge of the sword, won strength out of weakness, became mighty in war, put foreign armies to flight" (10:33,34).

BETTER THAN EARTH

Their hope in God's promise gave them the power to do all these things. But although these accomplishments were important, they were not the fulfillment of God's basic promise. That promise was of something beyond their sight. Hebrews says, "They desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore . . . God has prepared for them a city" (10:16).A celestial city not made with hands and not visible to human eyes. It was the promise of the city of God that gave these saints the power to accomplish what God gave them to do. Theologian John Bright says that this is why the prophet Jeremiah could not believe that the ruin of Israel was therefore the end of Israel. "True, he could see no cause to hope; but he never lost hope because he never lost God."

God promises something better than the earth to inherit. As C.S. Lewis puts it, "Aim at Heaven and you will get earth 'thrown in'; aim at earth and you will get neither."

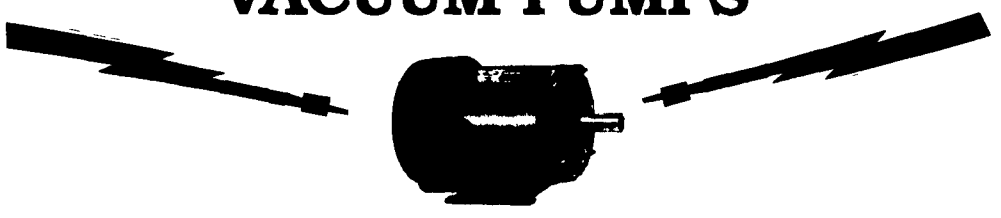
Fisher & Thompson, Inc. Proudly Announces
SMART TECHNOLOGY FOR VACUUM PUMPS



Cuts Electric Energy Used 50% to 80%

- Excellent investment payback
- Quiets vacuum pump
- Works with both lob and vane-type pumps

Look What John Landis, Landy Shade Farm says about this new technology installed in his milking parlor:

"I believe the savings in electricity will pay for this machine in a very short time. The noise levels are a fraction of what they were before. All of our employees love the quietness of the pump."

- Ordinary systems rely on the vacuum pump running full speed with a regulator valve. This system allows the pump to run at the exact speed required for the amount of vacuum needed.
- Watch for upcoming barn meeting to learn more about this E-Tron Controller PMC.
- Call immediately for more exciting details.

Chester County Conducts First Roundup Sale At Romano 4-H Center

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — A new chapter in Chester County 4-H history began Thursday evening with the sale of champions in the new exhibit facility erected here on the site donated by the Romano family.

For the first time, all three county livestock roundups were held in the new building this week. The sale conducted Thursday evening raised a grand total of $61,050.68 for exhibitors and the 4-H center itself.

Steer Show, Sale

In the steer show, Ben Walton showed his 1,265-pound purebred Angus to supreme steer at the roundup. The steer sold for $3 a pound for a total of $3,795 to Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Lionville, represented by Erik Lindberg and John Buseman at the sale.

The reserve, shown by Jason Marsch, weighed 1,225 pounds and sold to Jeff King of Devon for $1.95 a pound for a total of $2,388.75.

Ben Walton, supreme champion winner, 13, is the son of Frank and Susan Walton, Coatesville. The Unionville 7th grader showed a purebred Angus, Centurion, homebred on the family's 300-head cow/calf operation.

Ben said that raising a champion was a combination of genetic selection, good feed, "and how much time you spend with them," he said. Ben indicated that he spent an hour brushing and readying them for the show and sale.

Ben donated the proceeds from another steer he sold at the show, weighing 1,203 pounds, purchased for $1.05 per pound to the 4-H center. This is the second year he has won, in a row, at the roundup sale.

Reserve champion Jason Marsch, 16, is the son of Charles and Barbara Marsch, Green Lane. A senior at Upper Berks, Jason showed his Angus/Maine Anjou crossbred steer purchased from Paul Miller.

Jason said he picked the steer out himself. "It looked like a pretty good steer," he said, "a real eye-appealing calf."

Jason, president of the 4-H Beef Club, has been involved with 4-H for eight years. This is his third champion at the roundup — he won in 1990, 1991, and this year, he said.

There were a total of six heifer and 20 steers at the show.

Eighteen steers went for sale. The steer sale raised a total of $27,831.03. Average prices with champions was $1.09 per pound; without, 91 cents per pound.

Chet Hughes, Lancaster County livestock agent, judged the show.

Swine Show, Sale

A second year 4-H member picked up supreme champion market hog at the roundup this week.

The 258-pound champion crossbred gilt was shown by Shawn Beam, 9, son of Bill and Robin Beam, Elverson. Shawn, first time champion at the roundup, is in the third grade at Conestoga Christian School.

The champion hog was purchased by Titus Beam, Elverson, for $5.10 per pound for a total of $1,315.80.

Reserve champion shown by Kasey McAllister. The hog, weighing 250 pounds, was sold for $3.75 per pound to Bill Fairbairn, Coatesville, for a total of $937.50.

Reserve champion market hog was exhibited by Kasey McAllister, right, who sold the hog for $3.75 per pound to Bill Fairbairn.

Chester County Roundup

Kasey, 17, is the daughter of Bill and Karen McAllister, Spring City. Kasey, who served as vice president of her FFA, is a graduate of Owen J. Roberts High School. She attends Wilson College, Chambersburg, and is studying to be a veterinary technician.

The York crossbred was purchased by her father at the combined Parlett/Holloway Sale. Kasey said she walks the hogs twice a day for about a half mile overall. She had reserve champion about 5-6 years ago at the roundup, she said. She plans to show hogs at the state Farm Show.

Chet Hughes, Lancaster livestock agent, judged the show. There were a total of 98 hogs at the sale. The swine sale raised $27,589.05. Average price with champions was $1.20 per pound; without, $1.14 per pound.

Results of the show are included this issue.

Lamb Show, Sale

Chet Hughes picked the 113-pound Suffolk/Hampshire crossbred lamb shown by Chris Swartzentruber, 13, Glen Moore, as the champion lamb.

Chris, son of John and Janet Swartzentruber, is in the 8th grade at Twin Valley Bible Academy. The lamb, bought at a Fleeners Auction in April, was sold to Bill Fairbairn for $4.75 per pound for a total of $536.75.

The reserve champion was shown by Inez Stoltzfus, 18, daughter of Carl and Hilda Stoltzfus, Elverson. Inez, a graduate of Conestoga Christian School, sold the 122-pound Stella, bought from Ken Smoker at New Holland Sales Stables, at the auction to Bill MacCauley, Atglen, for $4 per pound for a total of $488.

There were a total of 36 lambs at the sale. The sale brought in a total of $9,630.60. Average price with champions was $2.40 per pound; without, $2.25 per pound.

Results of the show are included this issue.

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — If you'd ask Teresa Billig, she'd claim it was simply a nice "run of luck" that garnered her son, George, a market swine championship Tuesday at the Kutztown Fair.

But George believes that, along with good fortune, he claims it was a combination of good swine genetics, proper feed, and preparation that brought home the blue ribbon.

George, 12, son of Teresa and Timothy Billig, New Tripoli, showed his heavyweight champion, a York/Landrace/Hampshire gilt named "Matilda," to supreme champion market hog.

The homebred hog was bred using genetics from Ohio. George, a sixth grader at Northwestern Middle School, exercises the show hogs on his farm. "I walk them, but not everyday," he said.

George, who works on his family's 150-head farrow-to-finish farm, has showed champions before at Kutztown. He showed the reserve champion hog at the junior swine show at this year's Farm Show.

George also plans to show at Reading Fair, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), and, of course, Farm Show.

But the run of luck continues. George's brother, Daniel, won middleweight champion of the show as well as champion Chester White in the breed show and reserve champion fitter.

Reserve champion was shown by Kelly Peifer, reserve champion heavyweight hog. Kelly, 16, daughter of Jeff and Carol Brown, Bethel, showed her 210-pound York/Landrace hog, "Gordy," named in honor of Jeff Gordon, to champion.

A junior at Tulpehocken High School, Kelly said this was her first championship ever at Kutztown. The hog was obtained from Oscar Manbeck, Bethel.

In the breed show, Berkshire champion was shown by Todd Bennecoff, Jr., 9, son of Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown.

Daniel Billig was Chester White champion. Todd Bennecoff Jr., in the 4th grade at Northwestern Lehigh, also showed the Duroc champion. John Strawbridge, son of Donna Strawbridge, White Hall, showed the champion Hampshire hog. Landrace champion went to George Billig. Poland China champion was Rebecca Hottenstein, 8, daughter of Roy and Barbara Hottenstein, Kutztown. Spotted champion went to Kelly Lazarus, 18, daughter of Wayne and Grace Lazarus, Germansville, a graduate of Northwestern High School.

Yorkshire champion went to Roland Hottenstein, son of Roy and Barbara Hottenstein, Kutztown, in the 8th grade at Kutztown Junior High.

Champion fitter went to Cathryn Levan and reserve to Daniel Billig. Showmanship champion went to

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — "Reasons — that's where we won the contest."

Conrad Smoker, member of the Chester County 4-H Livestock Judging Team, spoke about some of the challenges faced by the team, which won the statewide livestock judging contest recently at Penn State 4-H Achievement Days.

Conrad, who noted the team competed against about 10 other teams at Penn State, said that they won the "reasons" segment of the contest by 47 points over the second place team. However, "we didn't have a real good day at the placings," said Conrad, but their many years of experience in livestock judging events pulled them through.

Conrad joined three other team members — Nathan and brother Jon Howe, and Derrick Frank — at the contest.

Conrad, 18, who along with the other members exhibited hogs at the Chester County 4-H Roundup this week, son of Clair and Nancy Smoker, Honey Brook, is a senior, home-schooled. This is the third time Chester County won the team livestock judging contest at state levels, he said.

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The Reichard brothers, J. Craig and Susan Wicker and Pleasant Valley Jerseys came away as the big wiinners during the district Shippensburg Community Fair Jersey Show.

Curtis Reichard of Chambersburg won the champion female in the open and 4-H contests with his 5-year-old Brigadier Sandra Dee.

He won the senior champion titles in the 4-H and open events with the same animal as well.

Reichard's brother Brad took the FFA grand and senior champion spots with his 5-year-old CBF Sooner Bonnie.

As if that wasn't impressive enough, Curtis Reichard also has the reserve grand champion in the FFA contest with his fall yearling SV Sundown RD Jude Jasmine-Et.

Brad Reichard kept going too and won the 4-H reserve grand and senior reserve grand champion honors with his 3-year-old Reich-Dale Brook Hillary.

The Wickers also captured the premier breeders award, with Pleasant Valley Jerseys of Chambersburg finishing in second place.

Pleasant Valley took the premier exhibitor award, while Jeffery and Michele Reasner of Shippensburg finished in second place.

Curtis Reichard came on strong again in the junior contest at the show.

His SV Sundown RD Jude Jasmine-Et won the junior champion spots in both the open and the FFA competitions.

Emme D. Mellott of Mercersburg took the 4-H junior champion title with her fall calf Pleasant Valley Regal Betty.

also a senior who is home-schooled. All told, he has eight years of experience in 4-H and brought along four hogs and one steer to the roundup.

Nathan's brother Jon, 19, has been a 4-H member for 10 years. He brought along two steers and four hogs to the roundup.

Derrick, 17, lives with his uncle Nelson Beam in Elverson. Derrick has been involved with 4-H for nine years. He's a senior at Conestoga Christian. He placed first in the super lightweight hog class at the roundup.

Conrad said that constant, consistent practice is what it took to win the state championship. "I was judging before I was old enough to go to State Days," he said.

From here, the team will travel to the national contest in Lousiville, Ky. in November. They also will compete at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. at the eastern regionals and at The Main Event at Ohio State University in October. They'll also be at the Keystone International Livestock Expo in Harrisburg in October.

Conrad works full-time as an A.I. technician at Genex.

WOODS - ALLOWAY

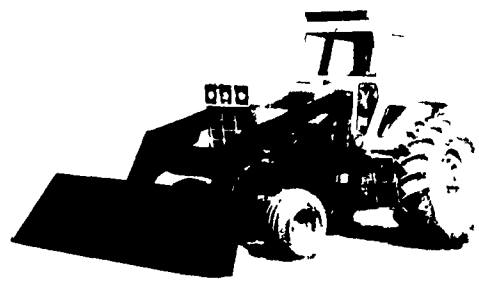
Woods has put together one of the most powerful lineups of mowers, backhoes, loader, scraper, snowblowers, blades and other landscaping and light industrial equipment in North America. Since 1947, we've been the first choice of commercial users, farmers and home owners and we're working hard to stay that way.

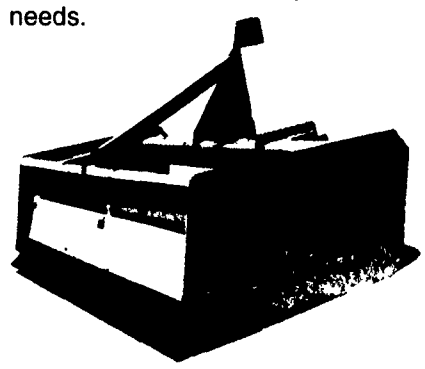
WOODS Turf Batwing

Available in 12, 15, and 17 foot cutting swaths, the new Woods Turf Batwing finish mower is engineered for high-productivity mowing. We've built the Turf Batwing to deliver years of trouble-free mowing, with a tough three-joint drive line, and long-lasting tapered roller bearings in every wheel, spindle, and gear mechanism.

WOODS - DuAL Loaders

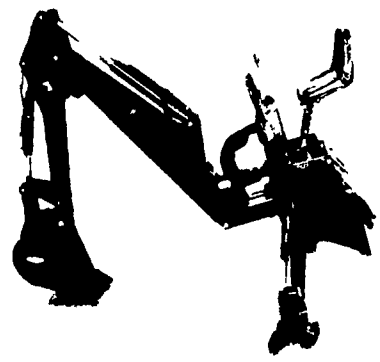
Whether your tractor has two wheel or four wheel drive and falls within the 11 to 200 horsepower range, Woods has a DuAL Loader to fit your needs.





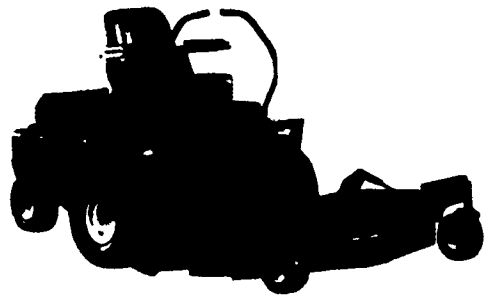
WOODS - Gill Scrapers

Barnyard Scrapers, rollover scrapers, SR-box scrapers, or B-box scrapers, Gill has a scraper for your purpose.



WOODS Backhoes

Backhoes for all types of jobs, from farming, light construction, landscaping, to medium construction, Woods has a backhoe for about any job.



WOODS Mow'n Machine

The ultimate zero-turning productivity tool for turf maintenance. It lets you get around obstacles without reversing and it has a wide three spindle mowing deck low & out front so you can mow under shrubs. Exceptionally comfortable and easy to handle.

culture equipment and using current farming strategies is the difference between micro-management and macro-management.

Precision agriculture is the term used to describe the farming use of global positioning system (GPS) equipment and technology that, like many other things now used in American agriculture since World War II, was developed and created for use by the military.

GPS consists of a system of satellites that, using radio beam contact between three known points in space, and one on the earth, the location of a signal from, say a tractor in a field, can be computed very closely.

The United States military and Coast Guard, and other nations' military forces use this type of specific information for some obvious and not-so-obvious reasons, such as monitoring the movements of potential and real threats and enemies, mapping, and in guidance systems.

The military, of course, has access to detailed accuracy that it doesn't want other entities to enjoy. They scramble the signal. The signal accuracy allowed for use by civilians is about 15 square feet, which is too large of an area to be of much use in precision farming, though it can have uses in locating and guiding a boat to a general offshore spot for fishing or diving, or some other needs that require that level of accuracy.

For farming a field, however, it is assumed that more precision is needed.

It seems logical that the degree of precision would have to correlate closely to the degree of change that is needed to be measured.

For example, with soil pH, the threshhold for change in pH that effects change in plant growth should provide a guide to determining the degree of precision needed to make a significant difference in yield for that species.

But those considerations are not necessarily part of the program.

In other words, is appears that precision agriculture, as it is, provides a degree of precision for measurement based on the technology available, not necessarily on what degree of precision is significant to the plant.

To achieve a greater precision from what the scrambled military satellite signals provides means having some means to "descramble" the military signal. To do this there is a "correction differential" — a constantly changing correction for error — that, using GPS computers and existing towers receiving a correction differential, a signal can be made precise to about 5 feet square, which can be used to create a grid over the crop field.

While managing a field in increments of blocks of 5 square feet is more precise, no information is yet available on how that precision correlates to Pennsylvania topography and variations in field characteristics.

For example, using the coordinates from the GPS, soil samples can be taken and then matched up with the grid to receive a more precise map of the field and its fertility variations.

Using the GPS in conjunction with a yield monitor (a moisture sensor and pressure plate system that allows for a close estimate on yield while combining) yield variations can be mapped out against the same grid and the maps compared.

The assumption is that a comparison of the two maps should demonstrate a correlation between fertility and yield.

However, as Penn State researchers found on a demonstration oat field at the Ralph E. Larson Research Farm at Rockspring, assumptions of correlations sometimes don't hold out.

According to Douglas Beegle, researcher and extension specialist with the Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences Agronomy Department, their use of the equipment is too new to make any research-based recommendations that would promote or discourage purchasing and using the equipment.

They are far from discounting the crop management strategy for local application, however. It's just that they need more time, perhaps several or more seasons, in order to study its application and gather data and test results so as to be able to arrive at an objetive recommendation by which Penn State Extension can stand.

Beegle explained that in Pennsylvania, the crop farming strategies promoted through research is based on averages.

For example, the current recommendation for soil testing fields is to take a series of representative samples across a field, mixing them together and then taking a sample from the mix for testing.

The pH, phosphorus, (P) nitrogen (N) and potasium (K) levels provided by the soil test are then used as a general guide to the match up with the amount of N, P or K that is required to meet crop needs. The farmer then applies the amount of nutrients per acre estimated to meet crop needs.

Those estimates are based on averages, on a per-acre scale, and it would seem that precision agriculture techniques will have to compete in practicality and profitability with the current "farming by averages."

Until that happens, and can be proven, the application of the GPS technology in Pennsylvania would seem to be something that needs to be determined on a case-by-case, person-by-person basis.

The most recent, available data from the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service for average farm size is for 1995. The state's 50,000 farms had a total of 7,700 acres of land (though that does not necessarily mean tillable land), for an average size of 154 acres.

Those farms earning less that $9,999 had an average of 79 acres; those earning from $10,000 to $99,999 had an average of 169 acres per farm; while those farms earning more than $100,000 in gross sales had an average of 337 acres.

What it basically means is that most farms in Pennsylvania are relatively limited in crop acreage.

The generally produced crops on those acres are hay, corn and soybeans, rye, wheat and oats, as well as pasture and woodlot.

Further, in addition to more variation in crop requirements, Pennsylvania farms generally have more soil and micro-environment characteristic variations over a smaller area than those in the Mid West, where the technology has been in use for more than several years.

While that would seem to encourage the use here of micro-management using precision agriculture techniques, it may also mean that, since there are more variables over a smaller farm in Pennsylvania, compared to farms in Nebraska or Iowa where the equipment is being used, that the use of the equipment here would require tracking more variables, such as soil moisture, soil temperatures, weed populations, perhaps exposure to sun, etc.

If that would be the case, then the extra cost of having to track more variables would require Pennsylvanians to see a much greater yield benefit than in the Midwest, in order to receive a comparable return on investment.

Otherwise, the use of precision agriculture here may be difficult to justify for production agriculture, although it would seem to have many applications in doing research.

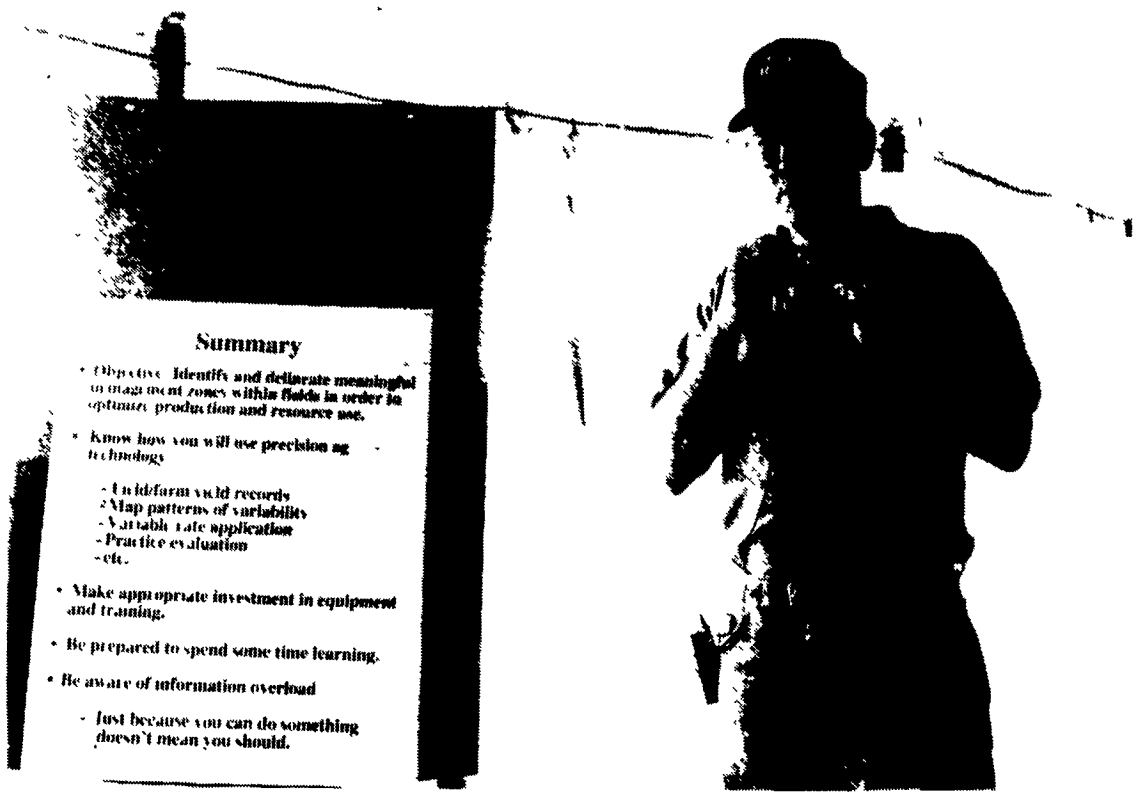
Making the Ag Progress Days presentation, in addition to Beegle, was John Rowehl, an agronomy agent with Penn State Cooperative Extension in York County; and Randy Bowersox, who works with Beegle.

During the presentation, Bowersox demonstrated the use of the equipment that the Agronomy Department purchased and is using in its studies.

Mounted in a two-wheel drive pickup truck, the Penn State system's year-old GPS receiver is mounted on the roof of the truck cab, while an automatic (pnuematically operated) soil sampler is mounted to the truck bed frame and extends vertically off of the side of the truck.

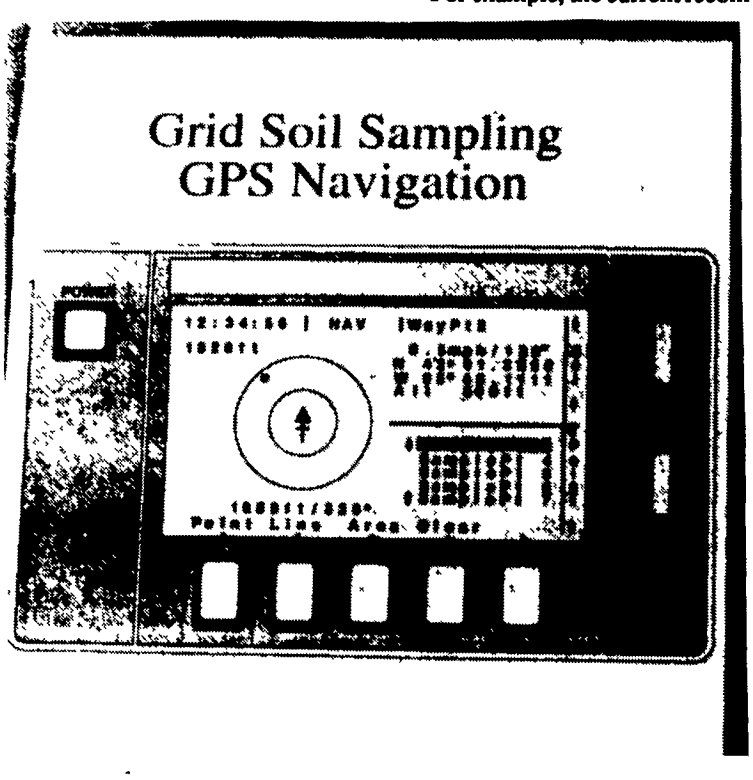
The mission of the demonstra-

(Turn to Page A29)



Summary
• Know how you will use precision ag technology
- Build/farm yield records
- Map patterns of variability
- Variable rate application
- Practice evaluation
- etc.
• Make appropriate investment in equipment and training.
• Be prepared to spend some time learning.
• Be aware of information overload
- Just because you can do something doesn't mean you should.

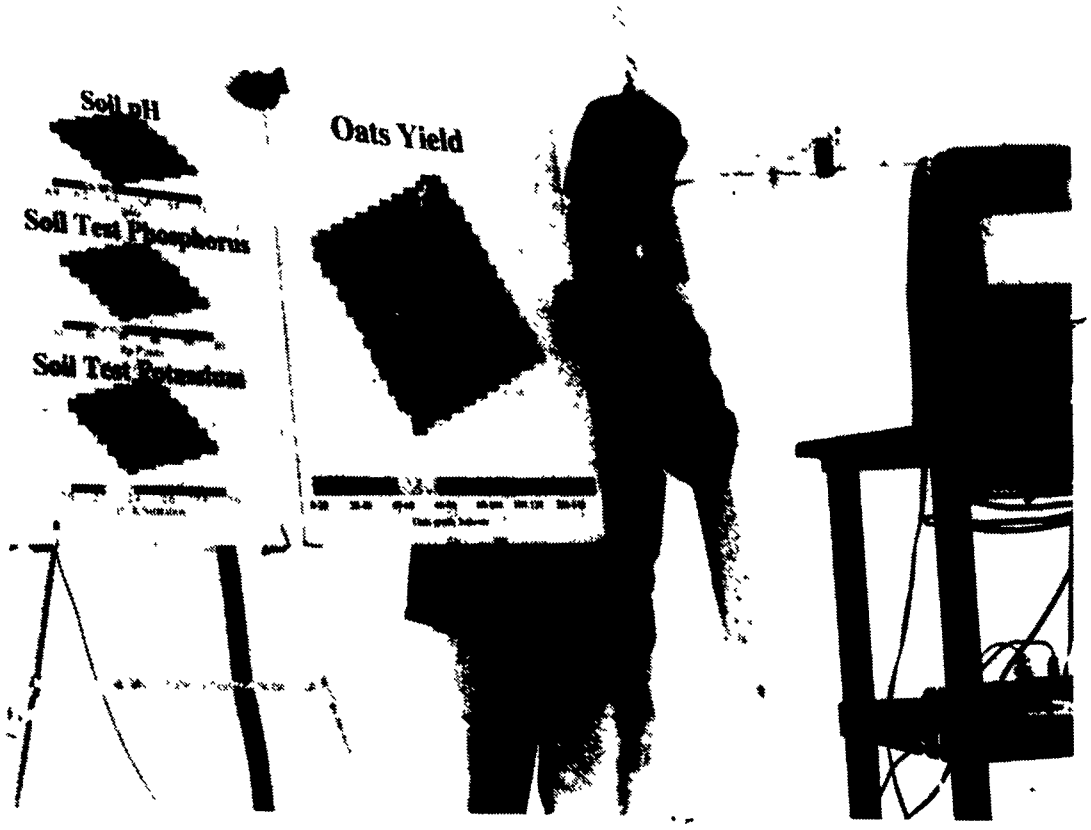
Penn State Agronomy Department researcher Doug Beegle talks about precision agriculture technology and what potential it may hold for Pennsylvania farmers.



This blow-up diagram is of the GPS monitor used inside a vehicle equipped with GPS precision agriculture equipment. The small circle just inside the outer of the two circles represents the vehicle with the GPS equipment, while the Christmas tree symbol represents the object to be found.

Randy Bowersox at the wheel of the pickup truck outfitted with Global Position System equipment keeps an eye on the monitor that shows him how far away he is from his target and where the truck is in relation.

Precision Ag Tools Very Precise, Perhaps Practical



John Rowehl, York County extension agent, shows a comparison of maps prepared with actual data from a 3.5-acre oat field. Soil pH, phosphorus and potassium maps don't show any correlation to the yield. The black and white photograph can't show the colors and the delineations, but just taken overall, as is, they show that oats yield has a more random distribution pattern that does not appear to correlate to the soil chemistry levels. It is important to note, however, that plant needs are important to consider when interpreting the maps. The soil tests actually show adequate levels for maximum yield for oats at the lowest levels for pH, phosphorus and potassium. This can be interpreted to mean that another factor affected crop yeild. Without any more data, it is impossible to give a good guess as to which factor that may be.

tion was for Bowersox — using coordinates previously recorded in the system's computer and following the tracking monitor mounted on the dashboard — to be able to return to the site where a quarter had been laid next to a soil sample-test core hole.

Bowersox found the site, but the quarter was gone. Apparently, it was "found" by someone meandering through the field.

The automatic sampler allows for the easy sampling of grids from the driver's seat. However, soil testing the grids still requires getting an average representative sample from several samples taken from each grid.

That means that a margin of error is stil going to have to be assumed and considered.

During his talk, Beegle also displayed an actual oats yield map of the 3.5-acre field and maps for fertility in the field. There was no correlation.

Beegle said what that probably means is that, under the conditions of the growing season, some other characteristic of the field had a greater affect on oat yield than soil fertility.

Though he didn't say so, some other considerations could include characteristics such as soil compaction, other effects to underground drainage, weed problems, perhaps some undetected chemical residues, insect problems, etc.

He said that, while remaining strong in his conviction of the importance of using soil fertility tests — it is essential to ensuring maximum yield — there is a variability in field productivity that is natural.

The reason for the demonstration during Ag Progress Days was that, "We're hopeful that some of the experiences we had trying to make use of (the GPS and precision ag equipment) we can share and then you will know a little bit more about it."

"I think the real challenge is — now that we have it — is how do we explain it," Beegle said.

The researcher said that a list of 12 priorities for factors that influence yields starts with soil chemistry and ends with plant population. Number 11 is general fertility, and second on the list was crop variety.

He said that data could be collected for all 12 factors, but that farmers have to be careful of "information overload," collecting and compiling data that may have not valid practical use.

"The challenge is not so much in collecting information, but in interpreting it."

He said that by being able to look at the different data and look for correlations, then a farmer may have a better chance at determining what his limiting factors are in achieving maximum yields, but there is not guarantee.

Background information is necessary for interpreting the data. For example, he showed a yield map for a nearby 30-acre rectangular corn field that showed a respectable yield for most of the field, except for along one edge.

Without seeing the field, a number of guesses can be made as to where to begin looking for causes to match the effect.

In this particular case, it was deer damage. The edge of the field bordered forest and mountain, and the yield map done with the GPS showed strong contrast in yield.

In his summary, he said the objective of using precision ag technology should be to identify and delineate meaningful management zones. To do that, know how you will use the the technology; make an appropriate investment in equipment and training (don't spend too little or too much and be sure you can use it); be prepared to spend some time learning; and be aware of information overload.

"Yield monitors and GPS won't make you more money," he said. "Using this information is to make better management decisions."

Beegle also said that there are many questions and not yet a lot of answers. He said that a researcher he heard giving a talk about precision agriculture and the technology said, in effect, that while they don't believe they have found all the answers, and they seem to find more questions with each step, they believe that they are confused at a higher level and about more important things than they were before.

Following the Penn State demonstration, a number of commercial equipment providers were given time to talk about the kind of equipment the company they represent had to offer.

Book Helps Farmers, Ranchers Harness Computer Technology

MOLINE, Ill. — A new book from John Deere Publishing can help farmers and ranchers quickly and easily put computer technology to work for them and their businesses.

The first in a new Agricultural Primer Series, "Hitch Up a Computer for Your Farm," by Chester Peterson Jr., is a complete guide to agricultural computer applications. It contains all the information farmers need to choose the right computer and software to fit their needs, upgrade an older computer, or guard against computer viruses. The book is also filled with practical tips from a host of farmers and ranchers throughout North America with computer experience.

Chapters include information on equipment — printers, scanners, modems, and faxes; weather-related, graphing, and accounting software; when a laptop is the best choice; the Internet and other online resources; and proper operating techniques.

Peterson, a former Successful Farming departmental editor, is a full-time writer-photographer. He's had articles published in 138 different magazines — including 31 computer magazines — in six countries.

Free Swine Seminar Set

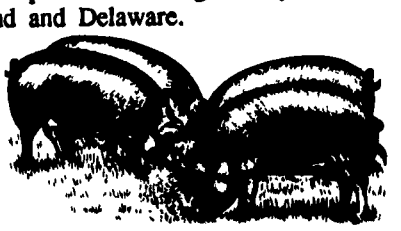
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — White Oak Mills is pleased to invite independent pork producers to a free seminar: "Beyond 2000: Managing the Modern Sow." The seminar will be held on Wednesday, August 27 from 1 to 3 p.m. at The Country Table Restaurant, Mount Joy, PA.

Dr. Betsy Newton, of Newsham Hybrids, Colorado Springs, Colorado, will be White Oak's key speaker. In addition to discussing sow management, she will be sharing information regarding Newsham's swine genetics. Following her talk, Dr. Newton will address producers' questions during a question and answer session. White Oak's swine specialist team also will be available to assist with the discussions.

Refreshments will be served.

To reserve a seat at this educational event, or to receive additional information, call White Oak Mills toll-free at (800) 468-5524.

White Oak Mills, founded in 1976 and headquartered in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, is a progressive feed manufacturer and pork producer serving Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.



Kirklea Broker Ebony Champion Of 4-H Show

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

HARFORD (Susquehanna Co.) — Kirklea Broker Ebony was named the overall grand champion of the Holstein animals at the 1997 Susquehanna County 4-H Dairy Show held at the Harford fairgrounds Saturday, Aug. 2.

The senior 3-year-old animal is owned by Matthew Pease of Susquehanna and was one of the 99 Holsteins shown at the county roundup, judged by Paul Moyer of Roaring Branch.

Named the reserve grand champion Holstein was C Tenbult Prelude Jamie, a 4-year-old owned by David Harvatine of Thompson. These Holsteins were also named the senior and reserve senior champions in the Holstein division, respectively.

The junior champion Holstein was Castlemont Astre Miranda, owned by Brad Castrogiovanni of Montrose. Taking reserve junior champion honors was Sweet Peas Astre Shela, owned by Kendal Miller of Jermyn.

Among the colored breeds, Ryan Sprout of Montrose walked into the overall grand champion position with his senior 3-year-old Jersey, J Imperial Panda. In the reserve overall grand champion spot was Gran-Kid Tylers Honey, a senior 3-year-old Jersey owned by Tyler Singleton, Montrose. These two animals also filled the senior and reserve senior champion Jersey positions, respectively.

Among the junior animals, Spruce Vine Juno Patsy, owned by Heather Pease of Susquehanna, topped the list as she was named the junior champion. In the reserve junior champion spot was Holmhurst Whistler Dandelion, owned by Ryan Sprout.

In the Ayrshire show, the Adams family of Montrose showed both the senior and reserve senior champions. Raymond Adams's senior 2-year-old, Rose-More Annie, topped Roselyn Adams's senior 2-year-old, Rose-More Peaches Sweetie.

Kylie Lester's Sunny Acres WVW Kineta, Montrose, was named the junior champion Ayrshire, while EJ Ayr-Willow Trident's Eve, owned by Elizabeth Seman, Thompson, was named reserve junior champion.

Sole entries in both the Brown Swiss show and the Guernsey show earned distinction. Brad Castrogiovanni, Montrose, earned the junior champion award with his summer yearling Guernsey, PR-SWV Tilly Daria, and Kylie Lester, Montrose, earned junior champion honors with her Brown Swiss, Roseledge Lon Style, also a summer yearling.

Kylie Lester's Brown Swiss, Roseledge Lon Style, was named the junior champion.

Brad Castrogiovanni's Guernsey, PR-SWV Tilly Daria, was named the junior Guernsey champion.

Romney Regional Show To Be Featured

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Some of the country's best white and natural-colored Romney sheep will be exhibited at the Mid-Atlantic Regional Romney Show at the New York Sheep and Wool Festival, Dutchess County Fairgrounds, Rhinebeck, N.Y. Friday, Oct. 17 at 7 p.m.

A regional sale of Romney ewes, run by Banner Sale Management, will take place the following day, in connection with the annual NYS Bred Ewe Sale. Sales of rams will be by private treaty.

This regional, which occurs every third year, is expected to attract entries from throughout New York and the other Mid-Atlantic States, as well as from New England and the Midwest.

Stephen Shafer, district director for the American Romney Breeders Association, noted several "firsts" for the association. This will be the first-ever Mid-Atlantic regional sale of Romneys, and the first time the New York State Sheep and Wool Festival will host a special regional show. It is also the first time that natural-colored Romneys will be shown at an ARBA Mid-Atlantic Regional Romney Show.

Romney breeders and those interested in Romneys can also attend the American Romney Breeders Association's annual meeting, with optional dinner, Saturday evening, Oct. 18.

For entry blanks for the regional show, and for annual meeting reservations contact Stephen Shafer, 285 Riverside Drive, Apt. 7A, New York, NY 10025, (212) 222-5703. For sale entries, contact Greg Deakin, Banner Sale Management, P.O. Box 500, Cuba, IL 61427, (309) 785-5058.

To top off this three-day weekend, natural-colored Romneys can be shown at a second event, the Annual Regional Natural Colored Sheep Show, Sunday, Oct. 19. This show features fine, medium, and longwool sheep, whether purebred or crossbred, and has become one of the most popular events at the festival. For entries, contact Krys Post, R.R. 1, Box 429A, Amenia, NY 12501, (914) 868-1706.

Dairy Show Has Good Competition

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG (Blair Co.) — Despite dry weather and low milk prices, the 1997 Morrison's Cove Dairy Show was one of the largest ever.

"We've had an excellent week," said Tom Ritchey, chairman of the event. "And, good weather!"

The 47th annual 4-H and FFA Dairy Show saw Amanda Cessna of Windy-Knoll-View Farm take the grand champion Holstein award with a three-year-old. She also took reserve and grand champion ribbons. .

Amanda continued to win her share of awards throughout the week.

Senior Reserve in the Holstein divison went to Heather Hoover of Tyrone with a three-year-old.

Auction Prices Remain Steady

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Familiar sale bidders, absent for several years from the Bedford County Fair, were back, making it one of the best overall averages ever.

While champion prices were not as high as some years, prices remained up throughout the six-hour sale.

The 69 market lamb average was $2.80 a pound, 118 market hogs averaged $1.90 and 48 steers averaged $1.07.

"I can't believe it, hogs an hour into the bidding are bringing what champions are at a lot of fairs," said one awed spectator.

Donations were heavy with animals being donated to almost every charitable cause in the area including one youngster, Corey Imes, New Enterprise, who gave 60 percent of his market hog price to the Heart Association.

Nathan Claycomb, who at 17 is a long-time veteran and owner of a number of previous champions, was back in the ring with a grand champion 1,239-pound heavyweight. The handsome steer was bid to $5.50 a pound by Frank Bittner of Gateway.

Reserve grand champion at 1,265 pounds went for $2 to Hoss's Steak and Seafood owned by Bill Campbell. The animal was owned by C.A. Detwiler of New Enterprise.

Bob Turkovich of American Outfitters was welcomed back after several years absence. He bid $6 a pound for the 118-pound grand champion lamb owned by Nicki Smith of New Enterprise. The reserve grand champion owned by Jimmy Wilkins weighed 117 pounds and brought $5.25 from Hilltop Farms in Maryland.

Niclle Over, on her way to college this fall, was happy to see her 250-pound champion hog bring a handsome $8.25. The state FFA secretary sold her champion to Bedford Ford.

American Outfitters followed close behind giving $8 for the 247 reserve grand hog owned by Ralph Williams Jr. Bob Turkovich, owner and founder of Outfitters, then gave it back to Williams to breed it again.

And, it was a proud grandpap who paid $5.50 for the champion hog carcass of Elisabeth Defibauth.

The day brought out a crowd of more than 300 bidders.

Frank Bittner and his granddaughter, Kaitlin Bittner, of Gateway in Breezewood, with Nathan Claycomb, owner of the grand champion heavyweight steer.

Dairy Of Distinction Farmers Meet

Some of the 1997 Dairy of Distinction dairy farm winners gather for a picture at Ag Progress Days. The awards are given each year to farm owners who have attractive farms that are a credit to the dairy industry's image to the consumers who drive by the farm. The program has been operating in Pennsylvania since 1987. More than 600 farms have been designated in the state program. The group met in the special events building Tuesday afternoon. Penn State's new dean, Robert Steele addressed the group.

Zetor's Low Prices Used To Be The Quickest Way For Dealers To Make Sales.

But Zetor-Power has taken over as the most important selling point. Zetor's up-to-date engineering and heavy cast iron chassis provide a balanced power-to-weight ratio that means a Zetor tractor does more with less horsepower!

Zetor tractors still pull their own weight after 16 years...twice as long as most American tractors.

And all Zetor tractors come with a two year warranty which underscores its worldwide reputation for building quality tractors that last, and more and more farmers are quick to agree.

MAMMA

Dear Friends of the Clinic for Special Children

We are again asking for your support and donations of saleable items to sell at the 6th Annual Benefit Auction on Saturday, Sept 20, 1997, at the Leola Produce Auction site on Brethren Church Rd Leola PA

All proceeds will go to the Clinic for Special Children, a non-profit organization, with Dr Holmes Morton as the attending physician Dr Morton has taken a special interest in several hereditary diseases By testing all newborn babies of high-risk percent-age, he has been able to prevent irreversible brain damage of many of these young children The same tests that are done at the clinic for 35^{00} would cost 350^{00} to 400^{00} at major medical centers, making these tests too expensive for many parents The costs of owning and operating this laboratory equipment are huge, but with the funds from this annual auction the clinic has been able to offer this service to their clients at a price that is affordable by the average parent

You may contact any of the following for more information or, if you wish, deliver your donation to any of them Thank you for your support

Farm Forum

Editor:

I don't have to tell anyone just how bad the situation is for this nations dairy farmers and the worst part is that according to Kraft and Senator Santorum it will get much worse

They both are telling farmers that they will have to produce milk for $9 00/cwt (blend price) which translates to a world market price of $8 00/cwt It is interesting to note that New Zealand sets the world market price by exporting milk for around $7 00/cwt to $8 00/cwt

We are told that in order to produce milk that we have to get efficient like the farmers in New Zealand

I just received a letter from Wayne Dellow of Kiwi Cooperative Dairies LTD Hawera New Zealand He reports that milk sold to the consumers in New Zealand sells for $4 90/gal $56 84/cwt Could American dairy farmers sell manufacturing milk for $8 00/cwt if we received $25 00/cwt for the fluid milk we sell You Betya! But our government says that we can't do that because it isn't Gatt legal It is only legal for everybody else

The reality is that our government does not give a damn about dairy farmers There are so few of us that even if we lived in one congressional district we could not elect one congressman!

What they like is increasing the profits of the companies that pay for their reelection campaigns In order to increase the profits of these corporations without causing inflation to rise too fast they must lower the price these corporations pay for th raw materials, milk being one of these.

So we must produce milk for less and less until we all lose our land and then they plan to import milk from New Zealand and South America.

Some of you might say that we must form a trade union.

Surprise, the Labor Management Relations Act passed into law in the late 1940's prohibits that Farmers are not allowed to unionize! The logic at that time was that since the federal government guaranteed farmers a market for their milk based on the cost of production that farmers must not be allowed to form a union and hold this nation's food supply hostage In 1980 the cost of production was removed from the price calculation Feel a little betrayed? Feel a little like an American Indian?

The suggestion was made by a non farmer on the internet, in conjunction with the farmers march on Washington on September 9th, that farmers use their tractors to block the nation's highways since it is the only way anybody will take notice

Surprise, somebody was listening The leaders of the Washington ,march were informed that the leaders of the march would be arrested if even one highway was blocked because they knew about, the blockade There is no way that the powers that be will allow the march to be covered in the media Ever wonder why when the Indians defeated an American Army it was a massacre and when the army wiped out an Indian village of women and children it was a great victory? Feel a little more like an American Indian?

Lewis and Clark came across a tribe of Indians who had been farming their land profitably for centuries Lewis and Clark were near death when they met the Nez Perce Indians. The Nez Perce Indians saved Lewis and Clark and signed a treaty of peace with them. Without the Nez Perce we would not own the area of this country then known as Oregon. In the late 1800's our forefathers decided that the Nez Perce land was too good for Indians and they were ordered onto a reservation Chief Joseph tried to move his tribe to Canada and the US Army tried to stop him. In a series of battles the Nez Perce defeated every army sent after them, each time defeating a force many times their own size. Finally, exhausted, they were betrayed by their friends, the Crow Indians, (we spell Crow - B i g C o o p e r a t i v e) and surrendered

They wound up on a reservation in Oklahoma Feel a little more like an Indian?

It is actually poetic justice Our forefathers stole this land from it's rightful owners Now it is being stolen from us

I will get petitions signed and I will go to Washington on September Ninth, but I truly feel that our fate is sealed just as the fate of the Indians was sealed 150 years ago

Penn State Alumni Hold Meeting, Pasto Honored Hayes Addresses Government Day

ing at Penn State through the eyes of the research team at Wisconsin, I was extremely impressed. The research programs here are first rate, and we will do everything we can to help our programs shine well into the next century.

"But first we are in the business of education. We want to do the best job in the learning community. Our goal is to enhance the student's learning experience so he becomes 'society-rated' graduates, ready to enter the trained work force.

"When a college does right by its students, the students will surely do right by their college. We have a reputation to attract the best students with the best faculty. Undergraduate enrollment has increased by 50 percent since 1990, more than any other college or university system.

"With your (alumni) participation and council, I know we can secure our success well into the future."

Society President Robert Clark presented the resolution crafted by the directors that recognizes Dr. and Mrs. Pasto's efforts to establish the Pasto Agricultural Museum in 1975 with an endowment and trust donation. The Pastos continue to support, collect and display agricultural artifacts to preserve agriculture's heritage into the future.

In accepting the honor, Pasto said it was a complete surprise but, "I appreciate it, and it has been a lot of fun. We will continue to the best of our ability."

Other business included a vote on amendments to the constitution and bylaws, introduction of board members and officers, and recognition of retiring board members.

Government Lunch

At the government lunch on Wednesday, Samuel Hayes Jr., Pennsylvania's secretary of agriculture reiterated the Ridge Adminstration's support of the state's No. 1 industry--agriculture.

"Gov. Ridge and I appreciate the speed with which the supplemental appropriations bill was passed," Hayes said. "It will be used to defray the enormous cost incurred by the depopulation of nearly 1 million laying hens and the cleaning and disinfecting of the premises.

"We are very encouraged that it has been three weeks since we have had a new flock indetified with the virus."

Hayes said he is continuing to press the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for permission to use a new vaccine which is presently being formulated.

Hayes announced that he is working within the department to develop a broad-based "Action Plan for Pennsylvania Agriculture." He pointed out that the plan will stress the protection of Pennsylvania's natural resources, recognizing the ever-increasing demand on our natural resource base.

"The plan will also stress economics," Hayes said. "Agriculture is not supposed to be a non-profit activity. Agriculture is econimics and we must be prepared to keep agriculture prosperous into the 21st century.

In related news, Hayes said the had notified USDA Secretary Dan Glickman that he will be requesting aid for drought-stricken counties in Pennsylvania.

"We appreciate the fact that seven Pennsylvania counties have already been made eligible for drought aid because they are contiguous to Maryland, but we know that there are many more counties which need to be included," Hayes said. "The state emergency board is meeting next week, and we will work to have the damage assessment made as quickly as possible."

The combination of drought conditions and extreme heat will be devastating to Pennsylvania farmers. Many are being forced to use feed supplies now which they should have for winter."

Pennsylvania counties eligible for emergency loans now include Adams, Bedford, Chester, FRanklin, Fulton, Lancaster, and York.

Lancaster 4-H Steer Champions Named

Jessica Stoltzfus, reserve champion in showmanship who won the $300 check from Lancaster Farming.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) - Showing for only the second time, Sarah Nolt of New Holland walked away with the grand champion market steer at the Lancaster County 4-H steer show last Friday. The 11 year-old Blue Ball Elementary School student had the champion heifer last year.

Her new champion named Elmo weighed in at 1,242 pounds and is a Chi-Angus crossbred. Sarah's parents are Eugene and Charlene Nolt.

The reserve grand champion was shown by Jessica Schmidt from Drumore. The Solanco High School sophomore named her steer, also a heavyweight, Power Buzz. She is the 15 year-old daughter of Pete and Laurie Schmidt.

In the showmanship contest, Delvin Kropf, Penn Grant Road, Lancaster, won the Intelligencer Journal steer award that is a focal point of this show each year. Working through adversity when his steer decided to lie down in the middle of the contest, Kropf handled the situation to the satisfaction of Judge Danny Ogle of Fair Hill, Maryland. For his efforts, Kropf will select a steer for the 1998 show season at the local newspaper's expense.

The reserve champion showman was Jessica Stoltzfus of Elizabethtown. Jessica won the Intell steer

Ag Progress Entices Crowd With Expanded Exhibits

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Many families equate Ag Progress Days with vacation. For Harry and Brenda Ross, attending the annual agricultural fair is a tradition.

"I remember coming here when I was my children's ages," Brenda said as she pulled a wagon loaded with children Jacob, 5, and Janelle, 2.

Accompanying the Rosses were Brenda's parents, Lee and Faye Knause, who raise beef cattle on their Selingsgrove farm.

The family spans three generation, and each generation finds Ag Progress an exciting place to be.

"It's a family day. The kids love collecting the free stuff," said Brian and Cheryl Folk of Kutztown.

The Folks raise beef cattle and recently purchased a horse. This year, in particular, they wanted to gather information on horses and watch the horse handling clinic sponsored by the 4-H program.

"This is a good place to learn what's new," said Esther and Elton Homan, who raised three acres of grapes in Chester County.

Most of the adults are fascinated by the large display of equipment and exhibits that show the latest advances in agricultural technology.

Three generations tour the Ag Progress grounds. Jacob, 5, and Janelle, 2, accompany parents Harry and Brenda Ross and grandparents Lee and Faye Knause, farmers in Selingsgrove. Coming to the annual event is a family tradition that Brenda remembers when she was the age of her children.

Esther and Elton Homan, Chester County grape growers, enjoy corn-on-the-cob for lunch.

Farm Bureau members Wilma Rolar and Ann Smith show off the cotton afghans sold to sponsor teachers for the week-long Ag in the Classroom training.

Visitors found plenty of stickers, baloons, recipes, key chains, coloring books, and things to pick up at the exhibit booths. In addition, many offered drawings for prizes.

Triplets John, Elie, and Caleb made their debut at Ag Progress, when they were infants and their parents, Jill and Carl Campbell, pushed them in a stroller. Now five years old, the three boys each had different ideas about what they liked best. Eli like the big wooden floor puzzes; Caleb was fascinated by bugs, and John, who proudly announced that he was the biggest of the three brothers, summed up his favorite by saying, "how about anything."

Some who come work at the annual event. Such is the case of Merle Fisher, who has 1,500 bee hives. Every year he helps dish up honey ice cream at the honey commodity stand.

Now 79 years old, Fisher delights in retelling stories from the past. Visitors are intrigued to hear him recall the summer of '46 and his advice; "never underestimate the intelligence of wildlife.

It's in talking with industry people that Fisher expanded his bee business by trucking rental bees to other states.

Clarence Berger is now retired, but he will never miss Ag Progress Days as long as he has the opportunity.

He said, "I like to come and see new things and meet people. I'm retired, but I rent out my farm so I need to do what's happening."

A group of agriculturists from the Baltic states visited the three-day event in hopes of starting a similar show in their countries of Ukraine, Estonia, and Latvia.

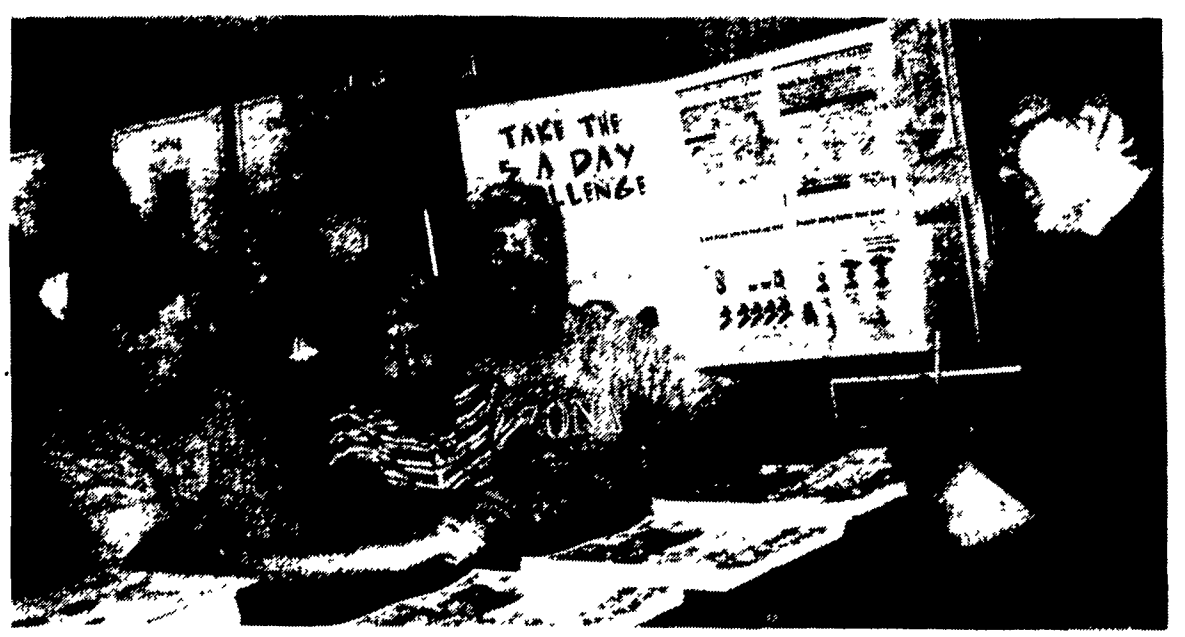
Not everyone who attends the annual event is connected with farming-related enterprises.

Chicagoan David Ingran was visiting friends in the area when he saw a preview of the event on television. He brought his six-year-old daughter Sabina, who was thrilled with seeing animals and snakes.

Richard Jamison used to be a farmer. Now he can't resist coming back just to see what's new in agriculture. He brings along his children just as Jim Houtz of Sugar Valley brings along his four sons. Houtz now pastors a church, but he wants his children to see first hand the advances in farming.

Four-year-old Ephraim Miller and his mother got a chance to go in the lamb pen while the crowd watches.

At the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association booth, Becky Sonnen tatoos "That Milk Thing" on the hand of Kalan Turner, 7, of Mohrsdale.



Lynn Brown administers the "Take 5 A Day Challenge" to Kristen, Hafner, 13; Morgan Hoffman, 4; and grandma Carol Hoffman of Reading.

Healthful Cooking Taught At Ag Progress

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — "Families . . . Our Most Important Resource was the focus in the family room building at Ag Progress.

Visitors could sit and enjoy the 30 minute demonstrations on everything from cooking to managing money and keeping fit.

The cooking demonstrations are always popular because visitors get to taste the food prepared.

One of the more unusual cooking demonstrations focused on great grains — preparing low fat foods in interesting ways. Grains are most often equated with cereals, breads, and pasta, but Alletta Schadler, family living agent from Lebanon County, prepared grain salads. If you enjoy tasty grains and want more fiber and a healthier diet, here are two recipes you will enjoy.

GREEK GRAIN SALAD

1½ cups water
1 cup unccoked couscous
½ teaspoon dried oregano
1½ cups diced plum tomatoes
1 cup diced cucumber
⅓ cup crumbled feta cheese
¼ cup small ripe olives, halves
3 tablespoons diced red onion
15-ounce can chickpeas, drained
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ tablespoon olive oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon coarsly ground pepper

Bring 1½ cups water to a boil in a medium saucepan; stir in couscous and oregano. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Fluff with a fork. Combine with next five ingredients. Set aside.

Combine ¼ cup water with remaining ingredients; stir with whisk. Pour dressing over couscous mixture, toss to coat. Makes 4 servings of 1½ cups.

Variation: cook 1 cup white rice or wild rice blend according to direction. Substitute well rinsed canned black beans or garbanzos.

WEHANI RICE AND BARLEY SALAD

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 bay leaf
1 cup Lundburg Wehanie rice*
1 cup pearl barley
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup ground cracked bulgar wheat
⅔ cup extra virgin olive oil
¼ cup red wine vinegar
⅔ cup chopped red onion
¼ cup chopped parsley or mixture of basil, rosemary and thyme
2 cloves garlic
¼ cup thin sliced scallions
Salt and pepper
*Other brown rices can be substituted or another cup of barley may be substituted.

In a large, heavy saucepan, heat the 1 tablespoon olive oil over medium heat. Add the bay leaf, and rice and barley and toast lightly, stirring, about 3 minutes. Add 4 cups water and ½ teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer until the rice has begun to burst and the barley is somewhat soft and doubled in size, about 45 minutes. Drain any excess water and spread grains on a baking sheet to cool. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan, bring ⅔ cup water and remaining salt to rolling boil. Pour over bulgar and let stand for 15 minutes.

Fluff and spread on baking sheet to cool. In a large bowl, combine the rice and barley with the bulgar. Add the olive oil, vinegar, onion, herbs, garlic, scallions, salt, and pepper. Toss well. Note: amount of oil may be reduced.

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up, and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

Consuming Thoughts

by

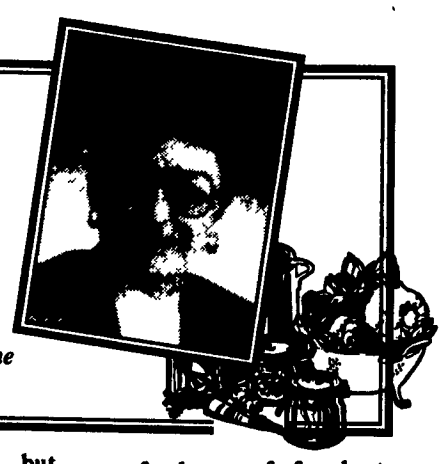
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Everyone loves picnics, but remember, food spoils quickly in the summer heat. In hot weather, it is especially important to pack food carefully to prevent food poisoning. Here are some tips to help you prepare for safe and tasty picnics.

Plan ahead:

- Take only the amount of food you'll use.
- With a proper cooler and ice, most foods are safe for short periods of time.
- Make several sandwiches at one time. Wrap each one by itself. Put all the wrapped sandwiches in a big plastic bag and freeze them. Simple sandwiches freeze best. Try using peanut butter, cheese, sliced meat or poultry.
- If you do not have a cooler, take fresh, canned or dried fruits; raw vegetables; hard cheese; canned or dried meats or fish; dry cereal; bread; peanut butter; crackers or cookies.

Packing pointers:

- Start with cold food packed right from the refrigerator or freezer.
- Pack all food in clean plastic wrap or sandwich bags.
- Use an insulated cooler if you have one.
- Include a cold source in the cooler or picnic basket, such as commercial ice packs, or make your own by placing ice cubes in a plastic bag and then wrapping the bag in foil.
- Make sandwiches ahead and freeze them. Place frozen sandwiches in the cooler or bag; sandwiches will thaw by lunchtime. Pack lettuce, tomato, and mayonnaise in separate containers. Add them to sandwiches just before eating.
- Freeze small cans or boxes of juice, yogurt or applesauce. They will thaw by lunchtime.
- Keep frozen food, such as hamburgers, in the cooler.
- Keep cold fruits in the cooler.
- Pack cold infant formula in an insulated cooler with a source to keep it cold.
- Keep hot foods hot with a thermos or insulated dish.

At the picnic:

- Keep the cooler in the shade.
- Add more ice if it begins to melt.
- In hot weather, food should not sit out for more than an hour.
- Serve food quickly from the cooler.
- Serve small portions so the food doesn't stay out of the cooler too long.

If you pland to prepare food at the site:

- Keep food cold until you're ready to grill it.
- Cook food completely at the picnic site-no partial cooking ahead.
- Cook food thoroughly.
- Red meat and poultry should not be pink; juices should run clear.
- Fish should flake with a fork.
- Use a clean plate to serve cooked food.
- Be careful that raw meat juices don't touch other foods.

Rules for safe food:

- Keep hot food hot and cold foods cold.
- Cover food to keep out bacteria and dust.
- Never leave food at room temperature for more than a total of two hours. Food spoils more quickly in the summer heat. Don't leave food sitting on the picnic table. When in doubt, throw it out!

Schwenksville, Thursdays — 5:15-to 7:15 p.m. from 9/18 to 12/11.

To enroll for either class send $65 check written to "Montgomery County Coop Extension to: Marcia Woodward, 1015 Bridge Road, Suite H, Collegeville PA 19426.

Include name, address, phone number and class preference.

Contact the Montgomery County Cooperative Extension office (610) 489-4315 for further information.

Class size is limited to 20 people.

Raising Expectations

Forget everything you've heard about compact tractors.

MF 1200 Series Tractors and implements perform way beyond their size and price. Precise lawn mowing. Heavy duty weed and brush clearing. Serious gardening. Landscaping. Materials handling. Trenching. Even light field work. These tractors excel at jobs that used to require big, expensive, fuel-thirsty tractors and implements.

Standard features include water-cooled, 3-cylinder, diesel engines; 3-point hitch and high-capacity auxiliary hydraulics; and rear PTO. Mid-PTO is also standard on the MF 1205, 1215, 1220 and 1230. Choices include ag or turf tires, and a huge selection of implements and attachments.

Summertime Favorites

Looking for a new way to serve some of the fresh fruit and vegetables in season? Or, perhaps, you're looking for a traditional recipe that makes good use of in-season produce.

Here are summertime favorites from our readers and some from the cooks in Schuylkill County who recently published a cookbook. The cookbook is a dilightful addition for cookbook collectors and they make great gifts. For information on how to order a cookbook, check out the featured recipe block on this page.

BLUSHING MILK ON THE ROCKS

1 tablespoon honey
10 ounces frozen strawberries, thawed
Vanilla or strawberry ice cream
3½ cups milk
1 cup crushed ice
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Crush strawberries and combine with honey and lemon juice. Add milk and ice. Shake or beat vigorously. Top with ice cream and serve immediately. Makes 4.

Many Schuylkill countians love to cook and find ingenious ways to support the county fair.

One of the ways they fund the community fair is through the printing of a cookbook. A second edition of the cookbook is available.

In addition to recipes for the Blue Ribbon fair entries, the cookbook has 600 recipes published in easy-to-read print. It's a 186-page spiral-bound cookbook with an additional section of coupons to use for name brand foods at your grocery store.

For a copy of the Schuylkill County Fair Cookbook, send $8 plus $2 for shipping and handling to Helen Koch, R.3, Box 59, New Ringgold, PA 17960.

Here is a recipe from the cookbook that had been submitted by Gloria Cockill that will help you take advantage of in-season peaches.

PEACH CUSTARD

4 eggs
1½ cups sugar
2 cups blended peaches
3 cups milk
2 heaping tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt

Blend all ingredients well. Pour into 2 unbaked pie shells. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

Junior Grangers Crown Royalty

HOWARD (Centre Co.) — Ann Kieffer and Jeff Bishop say they both are thought of as the "shy" type.

Well, they better enjoy it while it lasts because shyness is not part of the job description for the Junior Grange Prince and Princess of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

As the 1997-98 Junior Grange Royalty, Kieffer and Bishop — who were crowned at the week-long Junior Camp — will get plenty of opportunities to speak as they serve as public relations representatives for the Grange.

"I would like to let people know about community service," Bishop said about how he would like to enhance the Grange's image in the coming year. "It (community service) lets people know we're around. Community service is like free advertising for the Grange."

Kieffer, 14, daughter of Mark and Debra Kieffer of Bethel, Berks County, agreed.

"Community service is an important part of Grange," Kieffer of Marion Junior Grange #344 said.

Ann Kieffer and Jeff Bishop are the Junior Grange Prince and Princess of the Pa. State Grange.

Bishop, the son of Diana Mengel and Robert Bishop of Big Knob Junior Grange #226, Beaver County, is assistant steward in his Junior Grange. Bishop previously served as master, overseer, steward and gatekeeper.

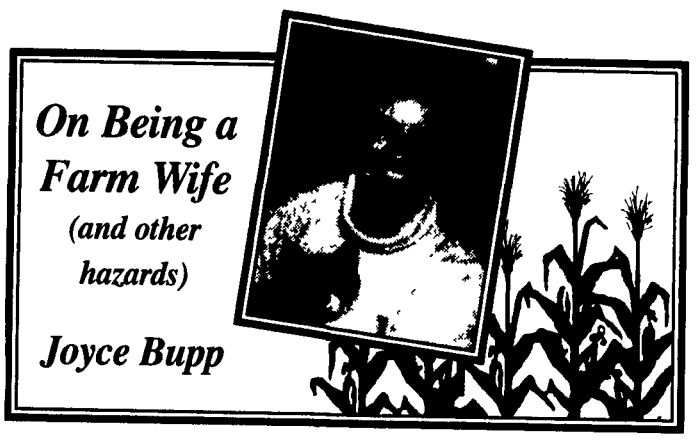
Kieffer has also filled many of the officer positions in the Junior Grange.

She is master, and has served as lecturer, assistant steward, chaplain, secretary, ceres, and flora.

Kieffer's non-Grange activities and hobbies include marching and concert bands, chorus, playing the flute, piccolo and piano, helping on the farm and collecting items that feature bears, cats and rabbits.

The Pennsylvania State Grange's Junior program is for children ages 5-14 with campers being between the age of 10-14. The Junior Grange program is a stepping stone to the Grange's Youth program, and emphasizes teaching children about stewardship, leadership and community service in a relaxed and entertaining environment.

Prior to the coronation, superlatives were awarded to boy and girl campers who were considered to exhibit the most courtesy to their peers. They are: Age 10 - Kolby Hollabaugh and Amanda Blair; Age 11 - Danny Harshberger and Melissa Wimer; Age 12 - Paul Lansberry and Shelly Reppert; Age 13 - Brad Van Tassel and Ashley Reighter; Age 14 - Adam McAnlis and Monica Schaeffer. Helpers (Jeremiah Wimer and Katie Carter) and counselors (Dean Miller and Kim Cummins) were also awarded a camp superlative T-shirt for being exemplary role models for the campers.



"Eeeeyyyyeeeeoooooooowwwwwwww!"

The screech split the quiet of the night outside the kitchen windows, which had been already lowered against the preview of fall that was chilling the air. Had we been on a jungle adventure or African savannah safari, I'd have set a record to hop atop the closest Landrover.

As it was, I shrugged and commented to The Farmer: "Sounds like Monk found the new cat."

Anyone who has overheard the sounds of a cat fight would have recognized the primeval squall of a cat defending its home turf. And, Monk, our aging housecat, has been queen of the hill, cat wise, since her arrival here a dozen-plus years ago as an orphan kitten, handraised by a friend.

"Fixed" after a couple years of birthing two litters of kittens every summer, ranging in from 5 to 8 kittens each time, she has since been on retirement strictly as a housepet. She will occasionally catch a mouse or a sparrow stranded in the attic, but heaven forbid that she think of consuming such fare. She prefers peanut butter.

Though she lets us live here, Monk considers this her house. She has resented every dog, every other cat, even visitors sometimes who are forward enough to sit in "her" chair at the kitchen table. And she is unequivocably my cat, though she tolerates The Farmer and will even curl up on his living room couch at his feet under certain conditions — like if he has covered up with "her" fuzzy black and white cow-motif blanket.

Earlier that evening, when I returned home after a meeting, Monk has — literally — met me at the door. She hung at my heels as I sorted the mail, put away paperwork and headed to the garden to check the progress of the ripening tomatoes and melons.

But though Monk was right there to greet me, a newcomer to the back yard had declined answering my call of "Kitty, kitty, kitty . . ."

For the past several weeks, we had spied an unfamiliar black cat haunting (that seems appropriate for a black cat) the meadow and the fencerows below the ponds. Then, more recently, I spotted it late one evening in the fields just behind the garden, and called to it on my way to pick stringbeans. The stranger disappeared, lickety-split, into the field terrace — only to turn up about 20 minutes later, meowing from the thick growth of the asparagus and raspberry patches neighboring the tomatoes.

Though I called and The Farmer slowly checked through the thick growth, we never actually saw the cat. Probably because, as she usually does when I go to the garden, Monk was right there, roaming the patch and keeping us company.

A few minutes later, though, we discovered that the stranger had followed us back to the house, apparently both lonely and obviously half-starved. He also had a visible injury near his right eye, likely from tangling in a food fight with something he was stalking for dinner. The offerings of cat food and milk I set out were not enough to draw his final surrender to strangers, but the thin slivers of bologna The Farmer came up with did the trick. And though he gobbled up the food offered, he still was so desperate for attention that he took time from satisfying rib-thin hunger to rub against us and plead to be petted.

Though I suggested we dub him Blackie (how unoriginal!), The Farmer opted for Midnight. We now have Midnight all day long. He still hides out in the bushes and flower beds when Monk goes on yard patrol, but follows us around if she's not in sight to stalk him. His ribs are no longer prominent, his fur is becoming more sleek and shiny and the injury beneath his eye is healed. If you're not careful, you fall over him wrapped around your ankles for attention.

We hope to cajol Midnight to make one more move — where he can have the run of the barns and the company of our two other resident barncats. Perhaps, instead of irritating the territorial Monk, Midnight will turn his hunting instincts to mice and rats.

It may start to sound like a farm again outside the kitchen window. Instead of a jungle.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like a recipe that uses a fat-free fruit-based replacement for butter or oil in baking. She writes that B.Light's recipe for Rasberry Bars made with Sunsweet Lighter Bake taste really good but the cost is too expensive. She would like a more economical replacement.

QUESTION — Mildred Hess, Myerstown, wants recipes using tomatillos, which are tennis ball-size, papery husked fruits that resemble ground cherries but bigger.

QUESTION — Cindy Sides, Ellicott City, Md., writes that a recipe for honey mustard pretzels was previously printed in this section. She clipped out the recipe but has been unable to find the required packaged mustard or honey dijon dry salad mix. She would like to know where to purchase it. Readers, I know there is also a recipe that doesn't required the dry mix. Does anyone have it?

QUESTION — Betty Kellicutt, Auburn, has been searching for years for a good dark rye bread recipe that tastes like bread they had in Germany. At one time, they could purchase the bread at a bakery in Benighanton, N.Y., which is now out of business. Betty believes the bread may have had a sour dough base. The bread was very crusty outside with a heavy soft inside, the "real stick to your ribs kind of stuff," she writes.

QUESTION — Betty Kellicutt, Auburn, would like a recipe for Queen Anne's lace jelly, which she had but lost.

QUESTION — N.E. Koons, Lebanon, would like a recipe for small individual pineapple upside down cakes made in muffin tins without using a cake mix.

QUESTION — Barbara Fair, Mohrsville, wants a recipe for corn cob jelly.

QUESTION — A subscriber would like a quick and easy recipe for cinnamon raisin bread such as made by Pepperidge Farm Style or Stroehmann's Dutch County—a recipe where the raisins don't sink to the bottom but are distributed thoughout the entire bread.

QUESTION — Susan Burkholder would like a recipe for vegetable pizza without cream cheese.

QUESTON — Linda Helms of Ephrata writes that she is canning and preserving jams and jellies to sell. She is looking for new and exciting jam, jelly, and marmalade recipes. She especially would like a recipe for horseradish jam, containing horseradish, vinegar, sugar, and pectin, which is suitable for roast beef sandwiches.

QUESTION — Kathryn Kreider, Jonestown, wants information on how to make and can pickled garlic. Also, she'd like to know how to make vinegar from apple cider and from other fruit wines.

QUESTION — Linda Bupp, Westminster, Md., would like a recipe for a no sugar added angel food cake.

QUESTION — Grace Rumer, Abington, is looking for a recipe for individual crumb buns with cheese pockets. Her husband ate some, which he said were delicious, on the Ocean City Boardwalk in New Jersey.

QUESTION — Catherine Shearer, Greencastle, writes that Sandy Hartman of Westfield had sent in a recipe for homemade hot dogs, which she forgot to cut out. She'd like it printed again. Since we don't have the recipe in our files, did anyone clip the recipe. If so, please send it in.

QUESTION — Rita Hodun, Calverton, NY, would like the recipe for apricot and honey marinade for spare ribs, etc.

QUESTION — Bari Ann Smalley wants a recipe for hard tack cake.

QUESTION — A Finger Lakes, New York reader wants to know if a large block of cheddar cheese can be cut and dipped in paraffin to keep it from molding.

QUESTION — Violet Cassner, Newburg, lost a recipe for ham baked in Coco Cola. She recalls that the ham was soaked in Coco Cola overnight in the refrigerator, and then baked with a caramel glaze.

QUESTION — Stephanie Huger, Meyerstown, is looking for a recipe for pumpkin strudel with poppy seeds and sour cream or cream cheese. Her grandmother from Hungary made it, but Stephanie lost the recipe.

QUESTION — Cel Brown of West Chester wants the recipe for a bread mix like the ones in the store called Daily Bread Company's. These mixes can be made ahead of time.

ANSWER — Linda Bupp, Westminster, Md., wanted a recipe for a whipped icing that looks like marshmallow. Thanks to Brenda Oberholtzer, Nottingham, for sending a recipe.

Marshmallow Icing

2 egg whites
Pinch salt
⅓ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff peaks form. Gradually add sugar and beat hard. Add corn syrup and vanilla and beat until very stiff. Delicious on any cake.

Thanks to Mrs. Jacob Novinger, Millersburg, for sending this recipe, which, she writes, she uses on almost every cake, especially good on red velvet cake.

Icing

½ cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
⅔ cup milk
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup Crisco
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put all ingredients in a bowl and beat. . .beat. . .beat.

Double-Boiler Frosting
7-minute

Combine in top of double boiler:
2 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon cream tartar OR
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
⅓ cup water

Place over boiling water and beat with rotary beater until mixture stands in stiff peaks. Scrap sides and bottom of pan occasionally. Fold in 1 teaspoon vanilla.

ANSWER — Here is a recipe for vegetable pizza; however, I think the one Susan Burkholder wanted is for a cold appetizer-style pizza and not the traditional style pizza.

Pizza

1½ cups warm water
1 tablespoon active dry yeast
1 teaspoon honey
4 cups unbleached flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 onion, roasted and sliced
1 cup canned or fresh tomato puree
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1 teaspoon chopped fresh basil
1 teaspoon chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 teaspoon black pepper
Pinch salt
Pinch sugar
1 eggplant, oven roasted
1 zucchini, sliced thin and blanched
1 yellow squash, sliced thin and blanched
4 plum tomatoes, sliced thin
1 teaspoon chopped fresh basil

In a large bowl, combine the water, yeast, honey, and 4 teaspoons flour. Stir gently to combine. Cover the bowl with a damp towel and let stand for 30 minutes in a warm place until foamy.

Add the remaining flour and salt, then knead for about 10 minutes, until the dough is well combined and smooth; add small amounts of additional flour if the dough is sticky. Transfer the dough to a large bowl, cover with a damp towel, and let rise in a warm place for about 45 minutes, or until doubled in volume. Punch the dough down and roll to fit into a 16-inch pizza pan. Set aside.

Preheat the oven to 450 degrees. In a large bowl, combine the onions, tomato puree, thyme, basil, parsley, oregano, garlic, pepper, salt, and sugar and stir to combine. Spread the mixture over the dough.

Chop the flesh of the roasted eggplant and spread over the sauce. Layer the zucchini, yellow squash, plum tomatoes, and basil over the eggplant. Bake the pizza for 15 to 20 minutes, or until the dough is golden brown. Serve hot.

ISLAND DREAMS

7-ounces flaked coconut
1 cup slivered almonds
½ cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon coconut extract
1 egg
1⅓ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cornstarch

Toast coconut and almonds on cookies sheets at 350 degrees for 4-6 minutes. Watch carefully and stir occasionally.

Cream together butter and sugars until light. Add vanilla and coconut extracts. Beat in egg.

Combine all dry ingredients. Stir into creamed mixture, using a spoon rather than a mixer. Add coconut and almonds.

Shape into one-inch balls. Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

Cool slightly before removing to a rack to complete cooling. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

PAN FRIED APPLES

¼ cup margarine
6 cups fairly thick sliced apples
⅓ to ½ cup white sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Melt butter in shallow pan until fairly hot. Add apples and cook about 5-10 minutes. Add sugar and cinnamon halfway through cooking. Just before serving, add approximately 5 large mashmallows. Stir until melted. Serve hot.

Preventing Injury From Falls In The Home

Why should you be concerned about preventing falls in your home? For many of us, the home provides the most basic need of shelter from the elements and intruders. Our home can give us a feeling of independence, but it can also become a barrier if we become susceptible to falls or a fear of falling. Nearly 85% of falls occur at home with the most frequent location being stairways, bedrooms, and the living room.

So what can you do to prevent a fall? Here are some things you should do or look for throughout the house.

There should be good even lighting. Light fixtures, lamps, and window treatments should be selected and placed to avoid glare on smooth surfaces.

Telephones should be located in each room and within reach from the floor in case of a fall. A portable phone will do. Emergency numbers and your address should be posted by each telephone.

Flooring materials should be hard, even surfaces or tightly woven, low pile carpeting over a thin pad. Carpeting and rugs should not be worm or torn. Small, loose rugs should have non-skid backing and not placed in traffic areas of the home.

Electrical cords should be placed out of the flow of traffic and out from underneath rugs and furniture.

Keep things in their proper place so they won't become a tripping hazard. Be alert to pets sleeping in traffic areas.

Next you can start your room by room inspection tour. Starting with the kitchen area, there should be a light switch near each door. The range and sink areas should have adequate light levels.

Storage in upper shelves or cabinets should be used only for infrequent needed items of light weight. Use a sturdy, stable stepladder or step stool rather than a chair to reach objects in overhead cabinets.

Adequate countertop space lets you keep carrying and lifting to a minimum.

Flooring should not be slippery and should have a non-glare surface. Place a non-skid rubber mat on the floor in front of the sink.

Moving on to the bathroom, the light switch should be located near the door. The lighting should be even without glare.

Bathtub or shower doors should be safety glass or plastic. Grab bars should be securely installed on the walls by the bathtub and toilet. There should be non-skid mat or strip son the standing area of the bathtub and shower.

If appropriate, install a high rise seat on the toilet.

Bathroom flooring should be matte-finished, textured tile, or low pile commercial carpet (no throw rugs or bath mats).

Your next stop is the stairway. There should be light switches at the top and bottom and at both ends of long hallways. Stairways and hallways should be well lighted. Hallways should be equipped with night lights.

Sturdy handrails should be on both sides of stairway and securely fastened. Step should have non-skid strips. Carpeting on steps should be securely fastened and free of fraying or holes.

Steps should be in good condition and free of objects placed or stored there.

The leading edge or nosing of each stair tread should be easy to see while walking down stairs. When possible, indicate steps by use of bright colored adhensive tape on step edges or contrasting color of paint.

Inside doors should not swing out over stair steps.

Room entrances do not have raised door tresholds or thresholds should be marked with contrasting a color.

Now on to the bedroom. The bedroom should be located on the first floor of the home, if possible.

A lamp or flashlight should be kept within reach of your bed. Check batteries periodically to make sure they are working and keep a spare package of batteries nearby. Use a night light to brighten the way to the bathroom at night.

Keep and adequate-sized night stand or small table near the bed for the telephone, glasses, or other important items. Use a sturdy chair with arms where you can sit to dress.

Shoes should be kept in special racks or tucked well under the bed. Clothing and other items should not be left on the floor.

Next on your tour is the living room. Again, a light switch should be located near the entrance.

Furniture, which might be used for support when walking or rising, should be steady and not tilt. Chairs and sofas should be sturdy, secure and have full arms to aid in sitting or rising.

The last stop on the tour is the outdoor area. Doorways, steps, porches, and walkways should have good lighting. Handrails should be sturdy and securely fastened. Steps and walkways should be in good condition and kept free of ice and wet leaves.

Adequate light is needed in your garage to prevent having to grope your way in the dark.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Susan Burkholder wanted recipes for carob powder. Thanks to Esther Hoffeditz, Mercersburg, for sending a recipe. Readers, send more carob recipes for Susan.

Carob Zucchini Bread

3 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups shredded zucchini
1 tablespoons vinegar
2½ cups flour
½ cup carob powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Beat eggs, oil, and sugar. Stir in vanilla, zucchini, and vinegar.

Combine dry ingredients and add to mixture. Pour into two greased loaf pans. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour.

Thanks to Doris Gehman, Manheim, for sending two recipes.

Carob Buttermilk Cake

1 cup butter
2¼ cups sugar
4 eggs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup hot water
¾ cup blackstrap molasses
2 teaspoons baking soda
4 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups homemade plain yogurt or buttermilk
¾ cup powdered carob
5 cups flour

Makes two 9x13-inch cakes or 6 dozen cupcakes. The carob and blackstrap yield a chocolate flavor, which produces a dark, very moist cake.

I use 100% whole wheat graham (soft wheat) flour and cut the butter in half to have good results.

Super Fudge Balls

Melt:
1 cup honey
1 cup peanut butter

Add:
1 cup carob powder

Mix well. Add:
1 cup sesame seeds
1 cup sunflower seeds
½ cup coconut
½ cup chopped dates

Mix well. Form into balls and refrigerate.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Thousands of children visited Ag Progress this week. The annual event shows how agriculture is changing our world and the newest scientific and equipment developments.

Interspersed throughout the grounds were plenty of activities and fun things for children to do.

One of the most popular places was The ImAGination Station, where kids used a computer to make a personalized newspaper page with a photo of themselves and a favorite insect.

Kids learned to separate good bugs from bad bugs, and how to start an insect collection.

Llamas were a big attraction. Some kids even got to take a llama ride and others rode on the miniature horses.

There were slimy snakes, owls, hawks, and turtles to admire in addition to common farm animals such as cows, calves, horses, pigs, goats, and sheep.

Many children liked to collect free balloons and other stuff, which were available from hundreds of exhibits throughout the grounds.

Coloring are Jeremy Stoltzfus, 6; Rebecca Joyner, 4; Nathan Stoltzfus, 4; Jessica Joyner, 2; and Philip Griffith, 5. They are the children of Carolyn and Dale Stoltzfus of Coatesville, Jennifer and Eric Joyner of Madisburg, and France Shachlock and Tom Griffith of State College.

Lindsay Rager enjoys the show from her dad's shoulders. She and her brother Jonathan, 10, are the children of Sue and Greg Rager of Cambria County. The parents, who enjoy gardening and grow fruit trees and berries, come to collect the latest information in their growing endeavors.

Katelynn Snyder, 8, likes the free milk handed out in the dairy tent at Ag Progress.

Ashley Rodeheaver, 5, rides a miniature horse during Ag Progress Days. She is the daughter of Jack and Terry Rodeheaver of Maryland.

Sheep Strut Their Style In Leadline Competition

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — "Their creativity amazes me," said Janella Berte, bridal gown designer and judge for the Leadline competition held at the Lancaster 4-H Roundup recently. Assisting in judging duties was John Eaton, sheep breeder.

Both said it was no easy task to select the winners from the large group of participants in both junior and senior divisions. Not only are the modeling skills and the outfits of both sheep and leadsperson judges but points are tallied for how well the leadsperson controls the sheep in the showring.

Chalk it up to a bad day or a mischievious sheep, but some potential winners' scores drop from the antics of unruly sheep. It's no easy task to model an outfit while holding the leadline of a contrary sheep, especially when dressed in wool on a hot sweltering day.

In the end, first place in the senior divison went to Kathy Musser, 17, who led a Shropshire named Mo Bo Peep. The sheep's scarf matched Kathy's brown and blue plaid wool dress.

Kathy is the daughter of Ken and Linda Musser of Mount Joy.

With the same outfit, Kathy took first place at the Manheim Community Farm Show last year.

Second-place winner went to Rachelle Newcomer, 15. She wore a black jacket and a black and white checked straight wool skirt. Rachelle's Hampshire sported a stylish black tuxedo collar. Rachelle is the daughter of Paul and Eileen Newcomer of Elizabethtown.

Third-place went to Sarah Zurin, 16, daughter of Gary and Judy Zurin of Mount Joy.

She led a black and white Jacob/Dorset lamb with a scarf tied around his neck. Sarah word a natural tan woold sweater and matching snowflake-patterned scarf and knit hat. The 85 percent wook scarf and hat is environmental friendly with a new fiber that

In the junior division, first-place winner was Bobbi Nicole Bentzel, 12, of Manheim. She led a Shropshire lamb sporting a red wool hat and scarf. Bobbi's outfit was a fit and flare red wool jumper and gray wool sweater accessorized with a red beret, gray ribbed tweed tights, crew socks, and boots.

Second place winner Ashley Funk, 11, of Millersville led a Hampshire Lacey. The sheep wore an eye-catching quilt piece. Ashley modeled a country look with a feminine flair, fabric, and style. The full skirt topped a petticoat, had long puffy sleeves and was handmade by Ashley's grandmother.

Ashley is the daughter of Scott and Celesta of Double A Manor Farm.

Third-place Nicole Hess wore a multi-colored tweed skirt, burgandy blouse, and cream sweater. She tied a matching scarf on her Hampshire cross named Baby.

Nicole, 12, is the daughter of Rob and Deborah Hess of Mt. Joy.

The lone male in the leadline was Radell Peters, 14, who wore a whool vest, bow tie, slacks and wool socks while leading a Dorset lamb. Radell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peters of Middletown.

Lancaster 4-H Roundup Opens Lancaster County's Fair Season

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — For 22 years, the Tracy family from Elizabethtown has been showing sheep and winning championships at every fair but the annual county 4-H Roundup.

Twelve-year-old John, the youngest of three brothers, changed that at the Lancaster County Roundup held at the Lampeter Fairgrounds on Aug. 7, when he clinched the coveted market lamb title. The Suffolk-cross named Snowball weighed in at 110 pounds. Although the light heavyweight faced heftier lambs in the showdown among champions in all classes, Snowball's outstanding structure and correctness impressed John Eaton, who served as judge at the day-long event.

The Tracys purchased the lamb during a silent auction held by Blu-Acres Farm, operated by the Brubaker and Fleener families in Robesonia. Although the lamb was the smallest to be sold, John's dad Gerald recognized its structural correctness as a good prospect. The family was surprised that no one else placed a bid on it. Which probably reveals that all these years of raising sheep has enabled the Tracys to recognize "a diamond in the rough."

John and brothers Mark, a junior at Penn State, and Ryan, 17, help each in the care of a flock of 22. The

A seventh grader at Elizabethtown Middle School, John has excelled and been part of the team that won the state championship and progressed to national competition in Odessey of the Mind.

Because a sale was not held at the 4-H Roundup, John plans to show the champion at the Elizabethtown Fair held later this month.

Taking the reserve champion market sheep honors was Allison Hughes. The 11-year-old showed a Hampshire cross named Cookies and Creme, praised for its meatiness and thickness of leg.

Clark Overcomes Failure With Determination

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LOYSVILLE (Perry Co.) — Michael Clark has come a long way since he failed third grade and was stuck in special education classes. The honors graduate from Perry High School recently completed a term as vice president of the Pennsylvania State FFA, was Pennsylvania's State Star Farmer in 1996, and is vying for a national office with the FFA.

Clark candidly talks about the era of his life when he felt like a failure, when success seemed impossible to achieve.

Although his elementary school years were pockmarked with loneliness, despair, and frustration, Clark doesn't regret them. Those years, he said, gave him the foundation he needed to build on, and from them he derived his philosophy for living that has helped him achieve awards again and again.

"Success doesn't come in a cardboard box or in a ziplock bag, or in a glass jar. Success comes in a can—I can. I can lift my chin up, dust the dirt from my knees, and take a step forward," the 20-year-old said.

When Clark talks about his journey from failure to accomplishing what others told him was impossible, it is evident that he needed to "dust off his knees" again and again.

During the first public speech that he gave, his knees shook so badly that someone else had to hold the podium to keep it from bouncing and the audience erupted in laughter.

After that experience, Clark never wanted to give another public speech, but he did.

Typical of his tenacity to not only get the job done but to get it done right, Clark sought help from his English teacher. She worked repeatedly with him to teach him how to pause, how to project his voice, and to speak effectively.

Slowly, Clark's speaking ability improved to the point that he garnered several awards.

"Now I tend to enjoy speaking, both extemporaneously and prepared," he said. "I like getting the audience involved emotionally. If I can get them to laugh or cry, I know my speech was a success, and that is rewarding."

When Clark first took a try at dairy judging, he placed "so horribly" that he doesn't even want to think about it. But typical of his tenacity, Clark studied diligently and by the following year he placed second in state competition.

Success such as that adds fuel to one of his motivating adages for when times get tough: "No excuses—find a way."

Finding a way is typical of Clark. When he had registered for ninth grade, he was discouraged from signing up for the college preparatory classes that he desperately wanted to take. Finally he was told if he received written permission from each of the teachers, he would be allowed to enroll. He did.

One-fourth of the way into the semester, Clark heard about FFA. Because he had always worked on a farm, he wanted to enroll in the youth agricultural program. He was told it was against school policy to study both college preparatory and ag courses. But with the help of the FFA adviser, Clark convinced the school authorities to let him try handling the double course-load.

Not only did Clark survive, but he turned into an honors student and was selected to take advanced biology classes. He also enrolled in double math courses.

"I thought if they are willing to teach me free, I'm going to take as many courses as allowed," Clark said.

His scholastic success doesn't mean that Clark turned into a whiz kid overnight and breezed through the workload. On the contrary, he said, "I always worked for what I got. Staying up all night to prepare for a class assignment was not unusual."

His goals have always been to do the best he can and that doesn't mean average in his vocabulary.

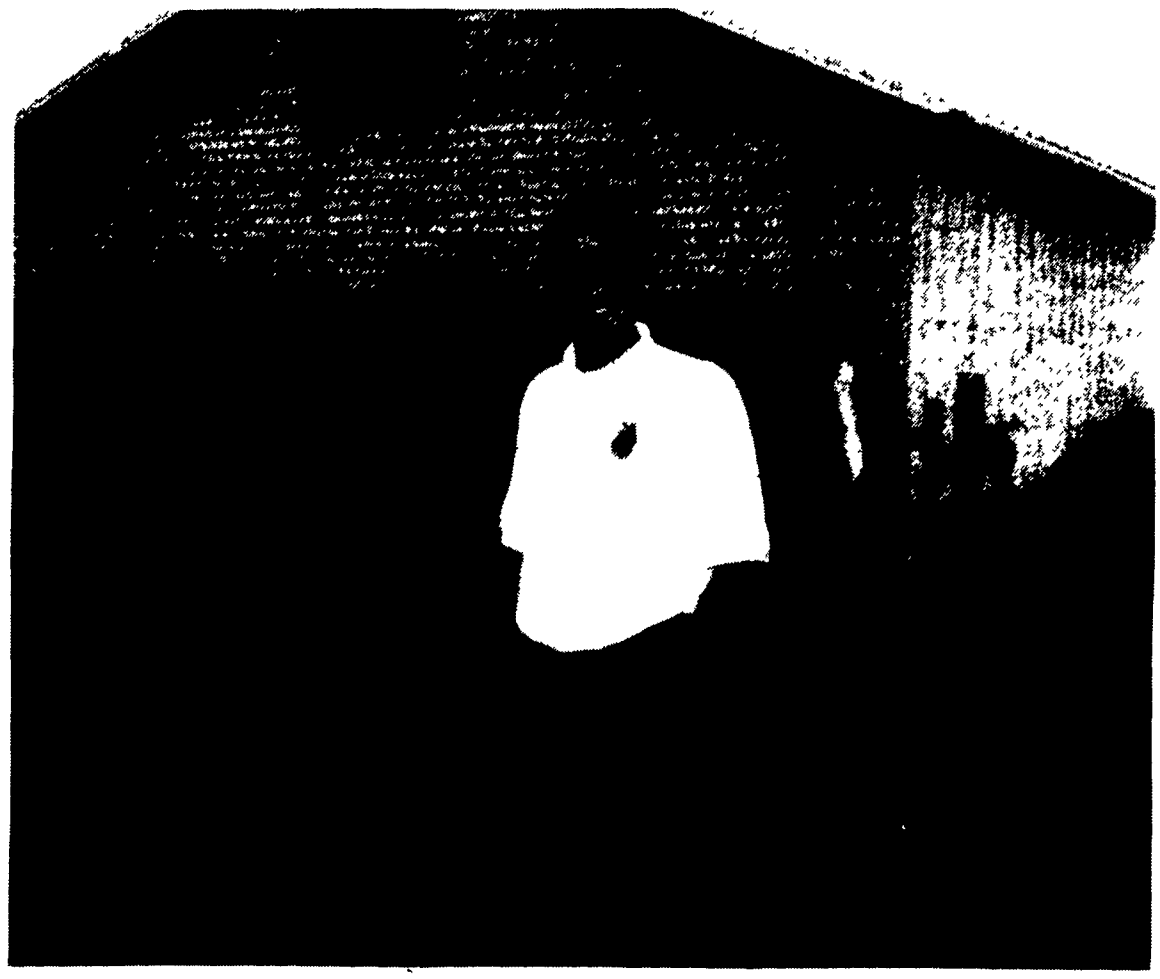
"My parents always taught me that something is not worth doing until it's done right. I'm thankful to my parents. They were always there for me," he said.

Clark said that the major turning point in his life was FFA involvement. Clark lavishes praise on his FFA adviser Sam Wagner.

"He's a terrific teacher. He was always there encouraging me. He and his wife often spent hours helping me prepare for competitions and on the computer in his home."

Clark said that Wagner consented to taking him in the class even though the class quota was met and he had a whole quarter of work to catch up. His first project was in horse production, since he had two horses.

Much of what Clark strives to accomplish is really in gratefulness to Wagner. Clark was thrilled to be the first from his high school to achieve the State Star Farmer award, the first to become a state FFA officer, and now he has been selected to represent Pennsylvania at the National competition.



"Success doesn't come in a cardboard box or in a ziplock bag, or in a glass jar. Success comes in a can—I can. I can lift my chin up, dust the dirt from my knees, and take a step forward," said Michael Clark, who has "dusted off his knees" again and again.

Wagner will soon retire from teaching. None of his students has ever achieved national officer status. "I'd like to accomplish that for Mr. Wagner," Clark said.

Clark is the son of Gary and Dolores Clark. He has a brother Jason, 18. He grew up working with animals on his grandfather's former dairy farm. When he was in ninth grade, Clark began working on Old Maples Dairy Farm owned by Mary Lou and Eric McMillan. Throughout high school, he worked from after school until 8 p.m. or later, a 12-hour day on Saturday, and morning and evening milkings on Sunday.

"I like milking the best, and have selected sires, and kept DHIA records for the farm," Clark said.

Since high school graduation, he continues to work on the farm, but will need to terminate it when he begins studies at Penn State Berks Campus in the fall.

At Penn State, Clark plans to study dairy and animal science. Although the Berks Campus is farther from his home than the main campus, Clark chose to attend the smaller campus because he thought the transition to college life would be easier.

Clark said the FFA chapter at West Perry High School is more production oriented than in many other school districts. No doubt that is in response to the largely farming community in the county.

He was president of the West Perry FFA Chapter and of the Cumberland-Dauphin-Perry chapters, and a member of the high school student council.

Clark pays attention to detail. He has been in the top 10 percent every year of his supervised agricultural experience (SAE) record books.

For three years, Clark has been selected to attend National Institute for Cooperative Education (NICE). He placed second in the nation in 1995 for his essay on how to make cooperatives more effective. He was student leader last year, and this year, he will train adult and youth leaders.

Clark also motivates leaders by working with the National Council Farmers Cooperative (NCFC).

Success, according to Clark, requires goal setting and diligent preparation. In his freshman year in high school, Clark set a goal to become the state Star Farmer, which is judged on personal interviews, record keeping, and leadership. Now that he has achieved that goal and the one to become a state officer, Clark has his sights set on the national office.

To enhance his speaking ability, Clark has scheduled a Dale Carnegie speaking course in the fall. He is organizing interviews with agricultural companies to familiarize himself with the interviewing proccess.

Only six national officers will be accepted from the 30 to 50 candidates.

The slim odds do not discourage Clark. One of his favorite sayings is "Success comes from the power of your determination."

If being selected for national FFA office depends upon determination, Clark is certain to attain a position.

Knitters' Day Out

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 12th annual Knitters' Day Out will be held on September 20, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Perry Vo-Tech School in Mechanicsburg. Three hundred knitters will participate in 40 workshops.

Special guest teachers are Leslye Solomon and Nicky Epstein. Leslye Solomon is known across the country for her books and videos on sweater design and finishing, socks, and machine knitting techniques. Solomon will offer workshops on sweater design and professional finishing. Nicky Epstein is one of the people featured in Knitting in America, a new book that describes America's leading knitters. She will teach two workshops on hats; her new book on knitting hats will be out in September.

Other workshops will include basics for beginners, spinning, knitting software, lace, color knitting, and much more. There will also be a vendors market with a broad range of knitting products.

The registration fee is $30; which includes two workshops, lunch, entrance to the Knitters' Market, and folder filled with patterns, catalogs, and samples. Entrance to the knitters' market only is $2. Advanced registration is required for workshops and lunch. Write to Knitters' Day Out, P.O. Box 463, New Kingstown, PA 17072 or contact http://www.erols.com/stum for more information.

BUTTERFLIES LOVE LIFE ON THE EDGE

Living life on the edge is apparently healthy for butterflies. Up to 30 different species of butterflies can live in a single habitat on the edges of fields.

Richard Yahner, a scientist at Penn State School of Forest Resources, found that hedgerows and vegetative areas on the edges of forests and farmland provide the ideal habitat for butterflies. Butterflies thrive along the edge of forest logging roads, within power rights of way, and along the edges of farmlands and other agricultural lands. By taking a few simple steps, farmers and gardeners can help these butterfly communities maintain themselves.

First, farmers and gardeners in rural areas can maintain a strip of wild herbacceous vegetation 12 to 15 feet wide along field edges. For example, grazing animals should be kept from pasture edges and lawn areas could be left unmowed. By leaving edges wild, butterfly communities can establish themselves. Forest managers, rural road supervisors and gardeners able to delay mowing road and lawn edges until mid-to-late September offer various butterfly species use of edge habitats.

Why bother maintaining butterfly habitat? Butterflies, which are active pollinators, play a crucial role in establishing wildflowers each growing season.

Many butterfly species that inhabitat forest edge habitats are rarely seen in more cultivated areas, such as farmland or urban areas. Visit a forested area at the right time, you'll see butterfly species you never dreamed existed. The butterflies most people see — monarchs, swallowtails and the familiar cabbage white — tend to inhabit areas near farmland, gardens or urban developments.

Yahner points out that butterflies common to farmland habitat are often non-native species, also called "exotics." Some butterflies like skippers also like wet meadows or wetlands because of the sedges grasses. To attract the greatest number of butterflies, butterfly bushes, butterfly weed, tithonia, milkweed, joepyeweed and thistles provide good nectar sources. Hackberry, parsley, spicebush and sassafras are favorite plants for others. You can't have butterflies without caterpillars.

Many of these plants provide food for the caterpillar. Food and plants for caterpillars can be planted out of sight. For example plants in the milkweed family provide food for the monarch larvae. Swallowtails are some of our largest local butterflies and perhaps the prettiest. Tiger swallowtails feed on leaves of cherry, birch, ash and tulip trees. Spicebush swallowtails like leaves of the spicebush and sassafras. Black swallowtails feed on celery, parsley, dill and Queen Anne's lace. The Red Admirals like nettles. The painted ladies like thistles and sunflowers.

Swallowtails and some of our largest local butterflies and perhaps the prettiest. Bees and butterflies are sun-lovers. Plant a butterfly garden in full-sun with bee balm, red-hot pokers, sedum, yarrow and various mints. The sun provides a comfortable place for butterflies to display their beautiful colors. Visit parks, butterfly gardens or just walk along rural roads to enjoy butterflies of all kinds. Look for the tiny American copper, silver-spotted skipper or the many Fritillaries.

4-H Roundup

Although Allison had shown a grand champion at Solanco last year, this was the first time that she ended up in the winner's circle at Roundup. Allison is the daughter of Chet and Marie Hughes.

Special honors went to April Leaman, 14, who showed the champion bred and owned market lamb named Buster. This is quite an accomplishment because it requires years of successful breeding to compete with lambs bred from show stock. April has been working with the family's flock since she was eight years old. Her parents David and Jackie and a brother Brad have 22 lambs, 14 ewes, and one ram on their Willow Street farm.

Although April had achieved champion breeding sheep titles before, this was the first in the market lamb division.

"I never count on winning because I don't want to be disappointed. I just do my best and am happy with whatever I get," April said.

Breeding sheep competition included Cheviot, Columbia, Dorset, Hampshire, Lincoln, Montadale, Polypay, Southdown, and Suffolk breeds.

The supreme champion over all those breeds was a Dorset ewe lamb named Julie. The classy lamb sported a cut that looked like a poodle-dogs legs.

"That took years of practice," Jessica reported of her fitting finesse.

Jessica purchased the lamb from Van Bair Farms in Dauphin. She had showed Julie's full sister last year, which took reserve championship honors at Roundup. The sire was a ram named Bad Attitude, which is known for its showy offspring with a lot of size, bone, and balance.

Jessica, 16, is the daughter of Frank and Irene Stoltzfus of Elizabethtown, and is a regular winner in county sheep competitions.

In a repeat of last year Regina Landis took the bred and owned champion breeding sheep at Roundup. The yearling Majesty is following in her "grandmother Amber's" footsteps, who had also achieved the same award two years in a row.

Majesty is a high capacity ewe with lots of volume and the favorite of the 40 ewes on the Landis farm. This is the 10th year of showing for Regina who with her brother Wendall has excelled in showmanship and in raising champion breeding sheep. Regina, daughter of Abe and Dottie Landis, will need to limit future sheep shows because of her involvement in playing field hockey for LMH. But the family will continue to raise and sell club lambs.

Novice champion showmanship honors went to Christine Beck. A newcomer to the area, 17-year-old Christine said that she has wanted to raise sheep for four years. Because her dad was in the military and needed to move often, owning sheep was an impossibility until the family settled in Peach Bottom this year. Now she raises two sheep and credits Jessica Stoltzfus with helping her honed showmanship skills.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

Berks County Society of Farm Women 3 met at the home of Leona Stauffer, Boyertown, for its June meeting. Members began with a road rally to different areas in Boyertown and in Gilbertsville. Members then returned to Leona's home for desserts and the business meeting.

At the July meeting, members held a family picnic at the home of Jeanette Milley of Bally. Members enjoyed playing games with the kids and eating great food and desserts. After a business meeting, everyone played Bingo. The August meeting is a day trip to Peddlers Village.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Last Christmas our family planned a get-together in the mountains in August. It seemed a long way in the future but now it is here. There are 27 members of our immediate family and most of them will be able to attend.

However, some won't be attending as their jobs demand their presence. One granddaughter will be in New Mexico building a house for Habitat while her mother expects to fly to Florida to visit a friend.

We rented a hunting cabin from a relative. This is a large cabin that has bunk beds to sleep 17 people. It has a large kitchen complete with modern appliances. Each family has been assigned a day on which they will be cooking. My husbnad has scouted the area and found a large public swimming pool and a golf course nearby. While checking out the place, we saw a turkey hen and her three young ones as they dashed into the underbrush.

There are so many things to remember to take along beside food and clothes. I've told my children that it gets rather cool in the mountains and they should bring sweaters. With lots of little children, I think a camera is a necessity as we want to remember the occasion. Let us hope we won't need an umbrella for a walk in the woods. We are sure to forget insect repellant, sunblock, flashlights or something else important.

Maybe I'll take my goldfish along as I do not think he would like eight days without food. This reminds me of something that happened to him last week. One of the grandchildren decided to feed the fish and so he screwed the top off of the fish food container and dumped the contents into the bowl. I guess he expected the top to have holes in it like a salt shaker. What a cloud of food swirled in the bowl. He got clean water in a hurry.

Register For Mill Tour

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Swiss Pioneer Preservation Associates will sponsor a bus tour of mills of eastern Lancaster County on Saturday, September 20. The group will be led by Arthur C. Lord of Millersville.

Lancaster County has had more than 300 grist mills. About 90 of these were still standing in 1995. See how some of these mills are used today. The tour will feature about 16 mills, including inside the Bowmansville Mill, built about 1850. There the group will be shown the original equipment used in the restored mill.

At the West Earl Flour Mill, also known as Fiandt's Mill, Elvin Hoover will explain how his water wheel is used to generate electricity — enough power to run two shops and two houses. Another stop will include the Weaver's Mill, once used to manufacture wagon wheels.

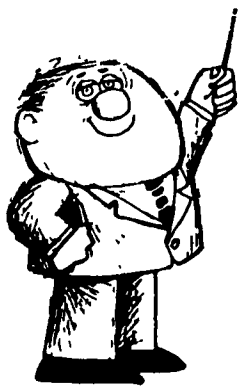
The Spring Grove Mill was built by Joseph Oberholtzer in 1868 on the site of the Spring Grove Forge. Later it was owned and operated by the Horst Brothers. The Greenville Mill on the Conestoga was built about 1780. The large four-story mill is now part of the White Oak Ice Plant.

Other mills featured on the tour were once owned or operated by Martin, Sensenig, Good, Zimmerman, Oberholtzer, and other local families.

Early community life centered around mills. Hear about the milelr's life and work in the 18th and 19th centuries. Mr. Lord will also tell how to identify a water-powered grist mill, describe the building materials used and why certain locations were chosen, discuss the rise and fall of milling in Lancaster County and the regional distribution of mills, as well as the difficulty of mill names.

For Lord, former associate professor of geography at Millersville University, storytelling comes naturally. His enthusiasm and extensive knowledge of mills will turn the bus into a classroom on wheels. He has spent more than 25 years studying the mills of Lancaster and has published the book, Water-Powered Grist Mills: Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

The afternoon tour will begin at 12:30 from Christian Aid Ministries along Route 322 near Hinkletown. For reservations, call (717) 354-4301 or (717) 445-7655.



A LESSON WELL LEARNED... LANCASTER FARMING'S CLASSIFIED ADS GET RESULTS!

Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr., kicked off the department's vegetable promotion pilot program at Fox's Market at Union Deposit in Dauphin County this week. The promotion is being piloted in more than 100 stores in six counties, and is being administered by the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association. Assisting with the event, from left, David McCorkle, president, Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association; Representative Sheila Miller, Representative Sandra Major, Representative Jeffrey Piccola, Secretary Hayes, Senator Noah Wenger, and Representative John Gordner. The pilot project, including identifying billboards, is being carried out in Bucks, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Montgomery and York counties.

Berks County Student Works As State Grange Intern

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As the Pennsylvania State Grange summer intern, Jen Davis has been working on many projects. Her duties include researching legislative information on the Telephone Act of 1996 and how telephone competition is going to effect rural Pennsylvania.

Other assignments include preparing an information packet on local tax reform, writing press releases and news articles for the Grange's newsletter, and shooting photographs.

"Interning with the Pennsylvania State Grange has been a wonderful experience," Jennifer said. "I've learned about the legislative process, issues facing agricultural and rural citizens and how to communicate a message to members as well as non-members."

The Pennsylvania State Grange is an agricultural, rural and community service organization with more than 31,000 members in 66 counties. The Grange is dedicated to improving life in rural Pennsylvania through grass-roots legislation, performing community service and offering member services including health insurance and a credit union.

Davis, the 21-year-old daughter of Ray and Frances Davis in Leesport, Berks County, helps her parents and two older brothers, Jeffrey and Michael, on JMJ-Springpond Farm, their family operation.

The family milks 60 registered Holstein cows, raises 70 yoiung stock, and farms approximately 400 acres consisting mainly of corn, alfalfa hay and barley. Jen's primary farm job is to care for the calves, and help wherever she is needed.

"Because of my internship, I don't get to spend as much time on the farm as I would like, but I've learned much more about how the Grange represents rural Pennsylvania and the field of agricultural communication," Davis said.

Davis is entering her senior year at Penn State University where she is majoring in dairy and animal science, with a minor in agricultural communications. At Penn State, Jennifer is active in the Dairy Science Club and is a member of the Block and Bridle and Poultry Science clubs.

After graduation, Davis would like to work promoting the dairy industry.

Davis is a member of Ontelaunee Grange #1617, Saint Johns (Hains) UCC Church, and Pennsylvania Holstein Association. She is also active in the Berks County Dairy Promotion Committee, where she is co-chairman.

POURED SOLID CONCRETE

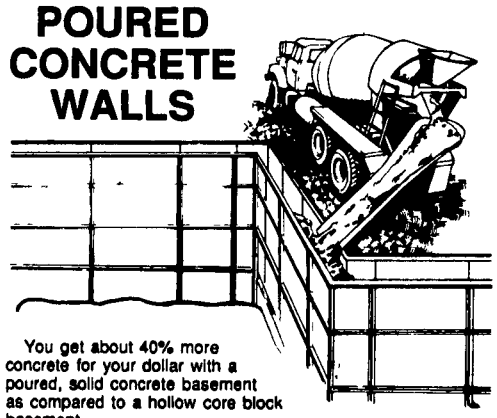
START WITH THE BEST!
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic . there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Anne Kavaliavskas, Dalton, wants to find a kit plus O ring for Laing Model SM 202-BTW Serial #468-151751 water circulator for a coal stove. She knows that this model has been discontinued.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal Renick wants to purchase a long wearing, economical material to rebottom oak kitchen chairs. What can she use?

ANSWER — J. Howdyshell, Bridgewater, Va., purchased a cast iron dinner bell at an estate auction. She wanted to know what is the best way to clean the bell and the significance of the number "1" on it? Thanks to George Musser, Jr., Louisa, for writing that the "1" refers to the size of the bell. George has a number two farmbell, which means is a medium-size bell. A number "1" is the largest farm bell. He suggests cleaning the bell with sand glister, sandpaper, a wire brush and elbow grease.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know if discarded T-shirts could be cut them into strips and crocheted for rag rugs? Thanks to Annie Stauffer, Loverville, Md., who writes that the shirts make beautiful crochet rugs. Cut on a spiral, starting that the bottom. Adjust width of strip according to weight of material. Sweat shirt type does not work very well. If you want more information, Annie will gladly answer questions by mail at Box 227, Loveville, MD 20656.

ANSWER — Here are some more answers for Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, who has a dog that, itches, scratches, and chews himself. Thanks to Edward Martin, who writes that most skin problems are nutrition related. Lab tests and a a nationally known canine vet has confirmed that most dog foods on the market today are nutritionally incomplete, toxic, and void of enzymes. This includes prescription brands sold only by vets. There is little inspection on manufactured dog foods. Many pet problems can be avoided by feeding a natural whole food supplement and digestive enzymes. For more information, call Ed at (717) 354-0162.

Thanks to Rolanda Ritzman, Lancaster, for writing that the symtoms of Rose's dog sounds the same as her dog, which has allergies. The West Highland Terrier dog also has dry skin. She only gets bathed about every 2-4 months with a shampoo called Veterinarian's Best for hot spot and itching relief. It has tree oil in it. It can be found locally but is also available mailorder through Foster & Smith catalog (1-800-826-7206.

Another remedy is to put the dog on an elimination diet for a month to see if it is food-related. The elimination diet is noth but lamb and rice (either dry or canned dog food). If that helps, slowly reintroduce other foods to see if symptoms increase. Rolanda's dog was on this diet and it revealed it was allergic to turkey and beef. She is no on vegetarian kibble and she does okay with chicken as well. This has helped a great deal. However, she was tested and is allergic to many things, including grass pollen, and needs to take prednisone when her allergies really acts up.

ANSWER — Daniel King, 116 Harristown Rd., Paradise, PA 17562, wanted to buy a butter churn, the kind that can be put in a Maytag wringer washer or a hand-turned wooden one. Thanks to Edward Martin for writing that wooden butter churns are available from Cumber General Store Catalog, which has catalogs for sale at H.F. Weit & Son Inc. of Ephrata. Call (717) 738-1141.

ANSWER — Duane Tucker of Clearville wanted copies of Sterb Lieder hymnbook of German funeral songs, which was published in Chambersburg by a person with the last name of Ruby. Thanks to Annie G. Stauffer, Loveville, Md., who suggests he check Clay Bookstore located along Rt.322 in Clay, Lancaster Co.

ANSWER — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wanted to know how to clean a very dirty butchering kettle. Thanks to Annie Stauffer of Maryland for suggesting that she use a piece of brick for a scrub brush and a regular cleanser. For persistent spots use oil with the brick to loosen the grime, then follow with regular cleaning.

Irish Hill Shamrocks Community Club

The club held its third meeting on June 13. Chris Stanis and Seth Everitt led the club in the pledges. After roll call and dues were taken, Megan Fetterman read the minutes from the last meeting. Each member told the rest of the club what they wanted to learn through their project work. Leader, Fran Small, then divided the members into two groups and a "cooperation game" was played.

The next meeting was held at Everitt's farm on July 20. It was started by a horse-drawn wagon ride to Everitt park. After the business meeting was held and adjourned, the club had hot dogs and "smores." The day was ended by the horse-drawn wagon ride back to Everitt's farm and a visit with the horses.

The New Picture Perfect 4-H Photography Club was started this winter by leaders Dawn Marcine of Whitehouse Station and Susan Sklodowshy of Frenchtown.

The club held elections at the February meeting. The officers are president - Jessie Friga of Annandale, vice president and corresponding secretary - Julie Williamson of Annandale, secretary - Victoria Koenigkramer of Neshanic, treasurer - Grace Grillo of Frenchtown, and reporter - Rachel Savicki of Clinton.

Following the elections, Chris Sebes showed the club a variety of cameras and explained how they worked.

At the March meeeting, John Hester, a photographer from the Hunterdon County Democrat, spoke about black and white photography and pinhole cameras. In April the club received and discussed a handout on camera viewing, automatic exposure, and automatic focus. In May the club toured Moto Photo in Whitehouse.

Typically meetings consist of current business, a speaker or presentation on some aspect of photography, and a time when members get tips on how to take better pictures. Club activities also include field trips and community service. Topics covered so far include camera types and how they work, black and white photography and pinhole cameras and camera viewing automatic exposure, auto focus, subject framing and horizon.

Keystone National Jackpot Show Winners Announced

The show was held in conjunction with the Keystone National Rib Cookoff and Music Fest. A total of 62 hogs, 69 lambs and 34 steers were exhibited. They represented Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia.

Cathy Stewart, Lebanon, youth chairman of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association was the chairman of the show.

Jackpots for the three shows totaled $1,600. The champion steer received $500, the champion barrow, $250, and the champion lamb also received $250. Premiums were paid for the top five placings in each class.

In the market hog class, the reserve champion was shown by Kevin Pfautz, Lititz. Judge for this show was Keith Bard from Portage, Pa. The champion, shown by Nicki Smith, was also the champion at the 1996 show.

In the market steer class, the champion was shown by Justin Fuls, Richland, and the reserve by Adrienne Wojeiechawshi from Barnesville, Maryland. Judge for the beef competition was Brian Bean from Lebanon.

In the market sheep competition, the champion was shown by Michael Kibler from State College, and the reserve by Ben Bow from Annville. The sheep judge was Dr. Robert Herr from Narvon.

In other competition, Heidi Sconavec from Rockwood, was the champion showman. The five best showmen were chosen from each species to compete for the champion showman.

Show sponsors included Agway, FritzFrey Livestock Supply, G and G Farm, John and Joann Hausner, Lebanon Valley National Bank, Purina Mills, Central Tractor Supply, York County Pork Producers, and the Pa. Pork Producers.

The Pennsylvania Livestock Association stated that it would like to thank all those who entered the event and also the many members who worked at both the Jackpot Show as well as at the Rib Cookoff in general. In order to make this event successful, nearly 1,100 volunteers were needed for the four-day period.

NCFC Expresses Disappointment Over President's Line Item Veto Of Co-op Tax Provisions

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On behalf of nearly 4,000 regional and local farmer-owned cooperatives across the United States, the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives today expressed deep disappointment over President Clinton's line item veto of cooperative tax provisions included in the recently signed budget and tax package.

"We believe the veto was unfair and unjustified," said NCFC President David Graves. "First, the real beneficiaries of such legislation would have been farmers and ranchers, their cooperatives, their employees, and rural communities across the U.S. — far in excess of the 100 or fewer taxpayers cited in conjunction with the President's action. Second, the provisions represent sound public policy. Current law, for example, provides for similar tax treatment relating to sales to employee stock ownership plans (ESOPS) and worker cooperatives. Therefore, the provisions would only have extended these same tax benefits to farmer cooperatives."

America's farmers and ranchers today must compete in a global environment increasingly dominated by large agribusiness giants, continued subsidized foreign competition, and artificial trade barriers. They also have to contend with nature and adverse weather such as this year's floods and drought. At the same time, government's traditional support for agriculture is being phased out and eliminated under the new farm bill.

The provisions vetoed by the President would have helped farmers and ranchers meeet such challenges by providing more of an opportunity to join together in cooperative efforts through ownership of plants and facilities that handle and process the commodities they grow and produce.

"In choosing to veto the cooperative tax provisions, the President indicated his strong support for 'family farmers and farmer cooperatives," as well as the basic objectives of such legislation. He also pledged to work closely with members of Congress in this regard. We hope this will be the case," Graves said.

Providing the tools farmers and ranchers need to remain viable and competitive long term would have helped maintain and strengthen farm income, promoted greater economic stability for rural communities, and protected rural jobs. NCFC will continue to work closely with members of Congress and others to help farmers and ranchers join together in cooperative efforts.

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives is a nationwide association of cooperative businesses owned and controlled by farmers. Its membership includes more than 110 major farmer marketing, supply, and credit cooperatives, and state councils of cooperatives with a combined membership that includes most of the nearly two million U.S. farmers.

YOU'LL LIKE HOW IT TURNS. AS WELL AS WHAT IT TURNS INTO.

One thing you'll appreciate about Case skid steers is how well they maneuver. Thanks to their responsive steering and overall compact size, they have the agility and the power to get the job done. Especially in limited space. Even more impressive is how many jobs they can master. Every Case skid steer is designed to power a long list of profit producing attachments. So whether the task involves lifting, digging, spreading or cutting, Case machines get it done. And our quick change coupling systems let you switch attachments fast. Plus, all Case skid steers from our rugged 18 horsepower gas model to our 56 horsepower diesel, provide the ultimate in power, durability and reliability. In fact, we offer more horsepower than the competition in almost every class. And every model is backed by the best parts, service and financing in the industry. Because our feeling is that dealer support should be every bit as strong and versatile as the machines themselves.

The Most Powerful Blower Made In Stock At Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. 1000 RPM Model 1580 Gehl Get One Today!

The three main factors that contribute to a forage blower's capacity are tip sped, hopper capabilities and available horsepower. Generally speaking, for optimum capacity, the blower requires at least one horsepower for each foot the material must be blown.

For instance, a blower on a 20-foot-diameter by 60-foot-center silo would require 70-plus horsepower. On a 25-foot-diameter by 90-foot center fill silo you should have 100-plus horsepower.

Horsepower requirements can be reduced with smoother unloading forage boxes and a wider gooseneck at the top of the silo

Choose the Gehl blower that's right for you.

With three models it's easy to match a high-capacity Gehl blower to your operation. In side by side tests at a 100' silo, Gehl blowers outperformed the best the competition had to offer, with the Model 1580 cleaning out an 18' self-unloading box full of haylage 16% faster than the closest competitive blower and 25% faster than one of the so called "leaders".

Gehl's secret is the twin spinner delivery system and the twin-sided fan. Two 24-inch spinners rifle your crop into the blower fan at nearly 35 mph There, the twin-sided fan, with paddles on each side, blows the material up the pipe with ease...it's almost like getting the performance of two blowers in one

Gehl blowers are also loaded with on convenience features you're sure to appreciate.

As a guideline, we recommend the following:

Silo size	HP required	Gehl Model
20'Wx60'-70' high	70 hp	FB1540
20'Wx80' high	90 hp	FB1580 (540 rpm) in stock
25'Wx90' and higher	100+ hp	FB1580 (1000 rpm) in stock

Swing away blower outlet.
They're more than tremendous blowing capacity designed into these blowers. Gehl swing away outlet makes it easier than ever to check fan paddle and rim sheet clearances and for rim sheet liner replacement. (Note: this outlet should never be opened until the pto is disconnected from the tractor and the blower disc has stopped turning.

Greater rim sheet life.
These blowers feature split rim sheets with a special inner, replaceable liner This extra hard liner is twice the thickness of ordinary rim sheet steel. In addition, when it finally does wear out, you only replace the liner that fits in the extreme wear area of the blower, right below the outlet. You don't have to replace the entire rim sheet! The result: reduced costs over the life of your Gehl blower.

Easier, faster fit to silo pipe.
Once you have the fit angle between your blower outlet and your pipe, it's easy to slide the telescope pipe into position. This new lip assures proper alignment and fit.

Tire Guard.
This tire guard protects the right blower tire when you're cleaning up around the blower with a silage fork. It is standard equipment on the 1580 and 1560, optional on the 1540.

Believe It Or Not, Gehl Blowers Have Less Moving Than Most Competitive Models. Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Quality Gehl Blower In Stock For Less Cost - Pickup A blower Soon and $ave $

Herbert Hoover Farney says, "I didn't think they could mix it."

Silvery Falls Farms - Lowville, NY

Mr Farney is talking about mixing 11.5% long stem dry hay by ration weight in the Knight Reel Auggie 3450, which he and his sons decided to purchase in September of 1994.

Herbert was born the day Herbert Hoover was elected president

The Farneys previously owned a three-auger Oswalt stationary unit They state that the "old mixer tended to ball material up, especially in wetter forages, while the Reel Auggie 3450 'fluffs' the ration."

The Farney's herd average is up about 1,000 lbs , and they have a higher protein test as well They milk 160 Holsteins, and feed a total of 260 head They like the low power requirement — the 390 cubic foot machine is powered by a John Deere 2030 tractor.

3000 Reel Auggie TMR Mixers
Now available in seven sizes with capacities from 147 to 600 cubic feet

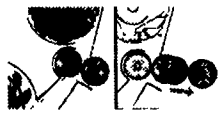
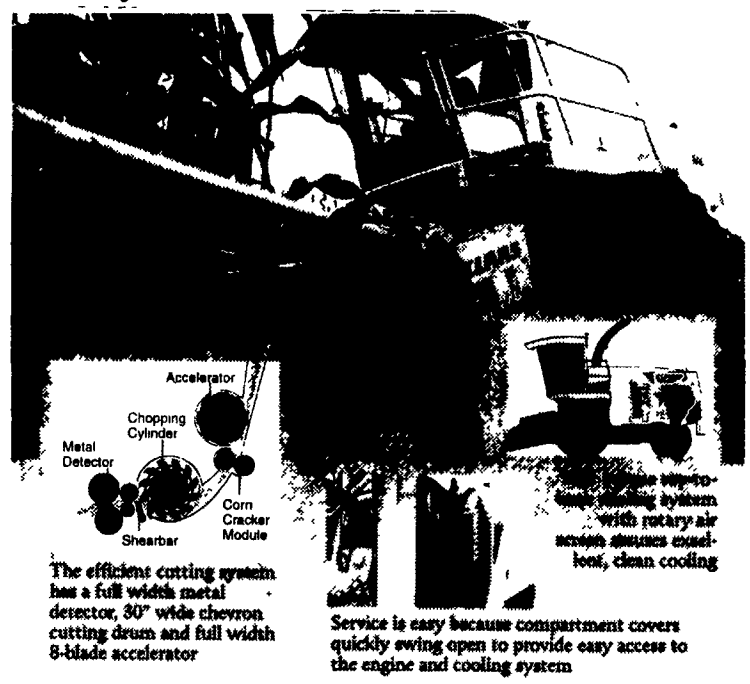
Maximum Power For Your Success

Get a beast of a deal on a new CLASS Jaguar
See your CLASS dealer for details.

The corn cracker can be changed in 5 minutes to switch from corn to hay The Jaguar's efficient processing produces quality silage for higher milk production





The efficient cutting system has a full width metal detector, 30" wide chevron cutting drum and full width 8-blade accelerator with rotary air screen ensures excellent, clean cooling

Service is easy because compartment covers quickly swing open to provide easy access to the engine and cooling system with 9"x24" roll installed w/#4 cut rolls to process corn silage in field. Just ask your feed man what can be done with rolled corn silage. Every bite of processed corn silage has more punch. It's really a concentrate that feeds like a roughage. Cut silage at 1" to 1 1/4" long. Run through high speed 1/4" cut crimping rolls.

MORE CONTROL

DESIGNED FOR TOTAL PERFORMANCE

The superior design and greater flexibility of the New Holland Model 900 put you in control. This forage harvester is designed to meet the needs of big-crop producers. You get capacity, reliability and efficiency.

- The massive 21-inch cutterhead uses hardened alloy knives with tungsten edges for a uniform chop.
- Under-knife baffles reduce crop carry-over and increase chopping capacity.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls let you inspect the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- The electric clutch provides immediate response and positive control of reversing gearbox.
- Optional Metalert® III protects equipment and livestock.

NEW HOLLAND

Get in control with, a New Holland Model 900 forage harvester

REACH FOR THE SKY!

MAKE SHORT WORK OF TALL SILOS

The Model 60 is a big-capacity 540-rpm forage blower built to center-fill silos 100' tall. It features a 37" diameter feed hopper that makes positioning and unloading with cross conveyers easy

A large 12" feed auger moves crop to the 60" fan for maximum blowing efficiency. The Model 60 forage blower also features:

- Eight adjustable, replaceable paddles
- Heavy-duty, shearbolt protected PTO
- Reversible blower band
- Adjustable air gate
- 9' telescoping pipe
- Adjustable wheels

NEW HOLLAND

So reach for the sky with the Model 60 forage blower Stop in today and we'll show you how to make short work of tall silos.

DAIRYMEN SAY YES AS TESTING PERIOD NEARS END

As I am writing this, there are hundred and hundreds more Dairymen testing Formula M. The results are trickling in. By the time you read this, we may have the final results. I have been testing Formula M for years and all the results have exceeded my expectations in appetite improvement; higher energy level; giving more milk; cows (even the extremely difficult or next to impossible ones) getting pregnant on the first breeding.

AND NOW!!! Dairymen everywhere are telling me that the Somatic Cell Count goes down when they feed Formula M. Over and over, I am hearing that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down. Dairymen tell me that they have tried other products and that they thought they saw some benefits, but the same Dairymen tell me that they see very dramatic differences almost immediately when using Formula M. Dairymen say they see a vast improvement in energy level and appetite. They say that they can see a significant increase in milk in a week to ten days after starting on Formula M Some Dairymen say their cows average 5 pounds more milk per cow, per day. The last reports I am waiting for are on Somatic Cell Count. They keep coming in and they keep verifying what we have been told many times before, that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down when feeding Formula M

If I had known all this before I set the price, (8¢ per cow, per day) I might have charged more. After all, it looks like most Dairymen will make an extra $1.00 per cow, per day.

Formula M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed Formula M according to the directions on the label, only ½ ounce per cow per day. (Formula M is very concentrated. ½ ounce per day is all they need). You can put Formula M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain mix or if you prefer, you can top dress Formula M. All you need to do to get Formula M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to FRANK LAMPLEY and give it to the driver when he delivers.

A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and costs only $92.00 (I pay freight). Formula M is completely free of drugs and made by the same people who make Vitamix.

There is one question that keeps coming up over and over, "How long do I have to keep feeding the Formula M?" "Forever?" The answer is, "Only as long as you want to keep making the extra dollar per day, per cow."

FORMULA M... IT'S WHAT CAUSES BABIES

Earth Auger Attachments Available

Melroe Company offers four new Bobcat® earth auger attachments for use on Bobcat® skid-steer loaders and compact excavators.

FARGO, N.D. — Melroe Company offers four new Bobcat® earth auger attachments for use on Bobcat® skid-steer loaders and compact excavators. A unique knuckle-joint style of linkage makes it easy to position the auger with plumb-line accuracy, regardless of the terrain or position of the machine.

Model 15, 15H, 30, and 30H augers provide options for tough digging applications that require high torque capabilities.

A wide variety of auger bits are available, ranging from 6 to 36 inches in diameter, that provide digging depths of more than four feet. Optional 14- and 24-inch auger extensions are also available. Special tree planting augers are available in sizes from 18 to 36 inches in diameter.

The Bob-Tach™ attachment mounting system makes it quick and easy to convert from the auger to any of the three dozen other Bobcat attachments.

Bobcat Model 15 and 30 auger drive units have new features that include:

• Direct drive. With no chains or sprockets, the smaller housing allows the entire drive unit to follow the bit into the hold, adding two feet to the digging depth when using 12-inch or larger bits.

• Greater torque. A more efficient design and modified displacements give the new drive units higher torque output for better performance in tough soils.

• Hex or round output shaft. Hex shafts (for Models 15H and 30H) and bits are recommended in tough digging conditions, but the drive units can be equipped with either hex or round output shafts.

• Improved mounting system. Auger drive units are shipped with an excavator mounting bracket which allows new drive units to be attached directly to Bobcat 325 and 331 excavators, or mounted to Bobcat loaders using a mounting frame.

Pioneer Redesigns Website

DES MOINES, Iowa — Ag producers traveling the information superhighway now have the option of driving in the passing lane or choosing the scenic route when visiting the website of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., at www.pioneer.com.

In an effort to better meet the varied needs of customers, Pioneer has redesigned its website, offering the option of an "enhanced" site with animated graphics and interactivity or a "text only" site for quick viewing.

"We have found that rural audiences value quick and easy access to the agricultural information we provide, so we are offering a text site that will download quickly and deliver information in the fastest way," said Lou Ireland, Pioneer communications technologies and delivery manager.

"Producers use the Internet to save time. When they want the latest information on new hybrids, crop and pest management, or livestock feeding, they don't want to wait a long time for it to download. Our simplified, text-only site will not only move them into the passing lane, but it also is designed to make information easier for all users to find," Ireland said.

Newly established, simplified topic categories will serve as a road map, guiding Web users to the information they are seeking. Those categories include News & Events, Products & Services, Crop Management & Beyond, Research and Technology, and About Pioneer. Current features such as a topic word search and the Pioneer Community Directory, which links producers to their local Pioneer experts, will be continued.

On a local front, producers also will be able to review pertinent information packaged by geography. Information will include plot tour details and local yield trial results.

Protiva Focuses On 'Big Future' At Conference

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — There was no crystal ball or hocus-pocus fortune teller, yet dairy producers at the Western Dairy Management conference caught a futuristic glimpse of their industry.

The "Big Future" event, sponsored by Protiva, a unit of Monsanto, provided producers with insight from leading dairy experts about current, leading-edge technologies and up-and-coming realities. Serving as a kick-off for the conference, the March 12 event attracted nearly 600 producers and others active in the industry.

"Our purpose was to introduce producers to innovations that will revolutionize the business of dairying," said Jim Chambers, western regional marketing supervisor for Protiva. "As we approach the 21st century, successful producers will incorporate management techniques, feeding strategies and highly technical equipment on their farms that were not available — or feasible — in the dairy operation of the past."

At each station the future of a key, dairy-related topic was discussed. Station representatives answered attendees' questions about the outlook of reproduction, milk marketing, nutrition, equipment, milk as medicine, veterinary medicine and management, in relation to the dairy industry.

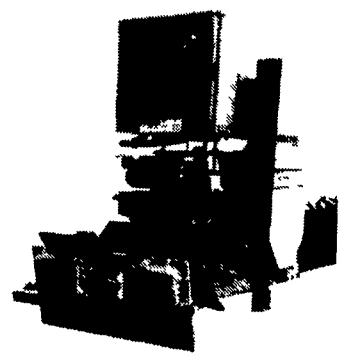
"The event showed a partnership between Protiva and the dairy industry," said Margo Souza, Turlock, Ca., dairy producer. "They brought up several important aspects about the future of dairying. During the event, a lot of strong information was presented."

Jerry Dryer, president of Jerry Dryer Group, Inc., a Chicago-based marketing and research firm, was on hand for questions at the milk-marketing station.

"In talking with the producers, I found there is a huge interest in overseas markets for dairy products," Dryer said. "The event helped producers learn about the opportunities that are out in front of them."

The milk-marketing station displayed several newly developed milk-based products available regionally in the United States. Dryer also provided samples of the most recently introduced milk beverages.

Harvestore Introduces Forage Unloader



A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. recently introduced the new 1998 model of the Atlas forage unloader now with the innovative Arm Advance Sentry® arm control, a built-in lubrication system and a new improved cutter hook system.

DEKALB, Ill. — A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. recently introduced the new 1998 model of the Atlas forage unloader now with the innovative Arm Advance Sentry® arm control, a built-in lubrication system and a new improved cutter hook system. Together, these technical upgrades can contribute to more consistent delivery and improved service life.

Most significant is the addition of the Arm Advance Sentry arm control. This device automatically monitors the length of time the cutter chain arm advances into the forage material. The result is more consistent delivery and less chance of bogging down or slowing because of material overload. It greatly reduces the need for an operator to constantly monitor or to make adjustments during the unloading sequence. Established parameters are maintained from feeding to feeding.

Also new to the 1998 Atlas unloader is the Hydra-Force® H.P. oil spray unit. This mobile unit works with a built-in cutter and conveyor chain lubrication system to help make regular chain lubrication an easily accomplished task. Using a high-pressure pump design, the unit forces oil through the system and creates powerful oil spray. Oil then penetrates through the forage material onto the conveyor chain within the unloader's housing, and onto the cutter chain inside the structure. Atlas Olympic forage hooks are now standard equipment on 1998 models. Chosen for their aggressive action, they have an exclusive pusher bar design which controls penetration for smoother digging and conveying action. Floor cleaning bars add to smoother conveying and all these features lead to more consistent delivery.

Ziegler Receives First Place

Claas Introduces Square Balers

COLUMBUS, Ind. — Claas of America introduces two new mid-size square balers, the Quadrant™ 1150 and 1150 Roto Cut™.

Both models produce a 32-inch x 20-inch x 78-inch compact, large bale. The size of bale produced is ideal for dairy and cattle farmers having to handle large bales inside buildings where space is restricted and for those baling silage, hay and straw.

The 1150 is equipped with a 79-inch wide pickup while the 1150 Roto Cut is equipped with an 82-inch wide pickup. The main PTO drive and gearbox to the packers have an overload clutch. Friction and safety clutches result in less downtime for the operator who will no longer have to stop and replace shearbolts.

The Roto Cut crop slicing mechanism is similar to that fitted to the Rollant™ and new Variant round balers. From the pickup, a four-tine sprial rotor feeds the crop through 12 spring-loaded knives giving a theoretical chop length of 2¼ inches. The knives are easily removed for sharpening and can be disengaged from the tractor cab.

The new Claas Quadrant™ 1150 and 1150 Roto Cut™ mid-size square balers produce a 32-inch x 20-inch x 78-inch compact, large bale.

Both models are equipped with four heavy-duty knotters and twin cleaning fans to keep them clear of dust and chaff.

Case Selects Art's-Way To Produce Tillage Equipment

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation has entered into an agreement with Art's-Way Manufacturing Co., Inc., Armstrong, Iowa, to produce selected Case IH tillage equipment.

Included in the agreement are Case IH moldboard plows, rippers, rotary hoes, and combo-mulch finishers.

Case will continue to manufacture planting and seeding equipment at the Case plant in Hamilton, Ontario, as well as the Concord facility in Fargo, N.D. Case acquired Concord in 1996.

"This is an excellent arrangement for Case IH and our customers," said John Garrison, general manager of the Case Agricultural Systems Business Unit. "It enables us to continue to supply our customers' needs for tillage equipment, while creating capacity at our Hamilton, Ontario, plant for our technologically-advanced planting equipment and for further development of new products."

Within the agricultural implement business alone, Case has added 21 new products within the last 18 months. In addition, the company has committed nearly $1 billion to new product development over the next four years.

Under the partnership agreement, Case will retain exclusive ownership and design control of the Case IH tillage products produced by Art's-Way.

Agent A Heads Conference

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Win Cowgill presented an award winning poster at the 1997 National Association of County Agricultural Agents Annual Meeting, held here recently. The poster, entitled "The Virtual Orchard - A World Wide Web Site for Sustainable Apple Information," was the first place winner in the Extension Education Category of the Poster Session Contest.

There were 31 entries in this category.

"The quality of the posters is the best I have seen to date at this meeting" said Stephen Hadcock, chair of the poster session.

The National Association of County Agricultural Agents promotes a nationwide effort to facilitate excellence in extension programming through high standards of professional performance. There were close to 2,000 members, and their families, attending the meeting this year. Members actively participate in the annual meeting by presenting their successful educational programs.

Cowgill, county agricultural agent in Hunterdon County, N.J., recently returned from the annual meeting and professional improvement conference. Cowgill chaired this professional improvement conference, three years in planning. Cowgill and a team of other New Jersey Agents were among the 2,000 agents and guests from across the United States who attended the week-long event hosted by NACAA members from the 11 northeastern states.

Headquarters for the July 13-17 event was tdhe Sheraton Hotel and Conference Center with events scheduled at the hotel, the University of Vermont, and other nearby venues. The purpose of NACAA is to provide professional improvement opportunities and recognition for its county agent members.

In addition, more than 30 different professional improvement tours were offered to dairy operations, research facilities, agribusinesses, and other agricultural enterprises in Vermont, New Hampshire, New York, and Quebec, Canada.

The keynote speaker was Dr. John Niederhauser, an internationally known agricultural researcher and the 1990 World Food Prize Laureate. Niederhauser spoke on his work in agricultural production in developing countries, including a potato improvement project in Mexico.

Other featured speakers were Tim Crater, Office of Governmental Affairs of the National Association of Evangelicals in Washington, D.C., who presented a program on America's heritage of faith, and Dr. Frank Bryan, a Vermont author, humorist, and professor of political science at the University of Vermont who spoke on how technology will impact Cooperative Extension in the next millennium.

NACAA's highest award, Service to World Agriculture, was presented to Senator Patrick Lehey, U.S. senator from Vermont, who addressed the group.

The conference also featured a new opportunity for professional improvement through program interest discussion groups for the various agricultural commodities. Cowgill co-chaired the Tree Fruit Discussion Group, where tree fruit county agents discussed new and innovative ways to address issues in tree fruit production across the US. In addition Cowgill presented lectures at the conference: "How to create a Web Page" and "How to Get Your Information Published on the World Wide Web."

Years Apart Yields Two Swine Breeds

COLUMBUS, Ohio — America's Yorkshires and Great Britain's Large Whites may have become two different swine breeds after years of development on opposite shores of the Atlantic, said Ohio State animal scientist Keith Irvin.

The first Large Whites from Great Britain were brought to the United States more than 100 years ago, but the registered name given to them in America was Yorkshire. Though the names are different, Yorkshires and Large Whites have been considered the same breed. But Ohio State research shows this may no longer be true.

"Early test indications show that years of selective breeding for different traits and restrictions on importation that kept the breeds separated have caused them to develop into two breeds that are close but distinctly different," Irvin said.

Researchers compared production and genetic information between Yorkshires and Large Whites to see if differences existed. Production studies focused on heterosis — the phenomenon of breeding different types of plants or animals to produce offspring that are larger, healthier or somehow better than the parents.

"We've known for many years in the livestock industry the importance of heterosis to economic traits such as litter size, milk production, rate of weight gain and feed efficiency," Irvin said. "Commercial pork producers must use crossbred sows to be economically viable."

Pigs from Yorkshire and Large White crossbred sows gained weight faster and used feed more efficiently than those from pure sows. Crosses also were not as lean as pure pigs, so some unwanted effects occurred. Overall, the cross combinations were about 4 percent different than the pure combinations, Irvin said. If Yorkshires and Large Whites were still the same breed, no difference between offspring would have occurred.

Researchers also tested DNA from the Yorkshire and Large White breeds and found enough variation in the genetic content to declare them two separate breeds.

This is important to know, because some Large White importation has occurred in the past few years, and if they are genetically different from Yorkshires, it may influence the way pork producers breed the two types of swine, Irvin said. Producers who know a difference exists may breed the pigs to take advantage of weight gain, feed efficiency or other heterosis effects.

The research was done at the Western Branch of Ohio State's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in South Charleston and at the Ohio State University Swine Evaluation Station in Columbus. The production study will be completed in the fall by Mike Barhorst, graduate research associate, and the genetic research will be finalized later this summer by graduate research associate Stacy Kacirek. The projects were partially funded by the National Pork Producers Council and the Ohio Pork Producers Council.

The Yorkshire and Large White research was presented at the national meeting of the American Society of Animal Science in Nashville, Tenn. July 28 to Aug. 1.

Alfa Laval Agri Acquires Germania Dairy Automation

KANSAS CITY, Mo. —The acquisition of Germania Dairy Automation by Alfa Laval Agri is official. Contracts between the two companies were signed on April 16.

Alfa Laval Agri purchased all issued and outstanding shares of Germania Dairy Automation, Inc. and interests of all members of RoKa Scientific, LLC, Waunakee, Wis.

Germania was founded by Rolf Reisgies in 1973 with the patented invention of the all air-powered arm take-off. Subsequent dairy equipment inventions, including the top outlet barrel claw, back flush and Pro-Time parlor stalls, have helped position Germania as one of the leading parlor automation companies in the U.S., Canada and many international markets.

"Without question, no other supplier can satisfy as many individual milking parlor demands now as we can," said Ludolf Bjelland, President of Alfa Laval Agri, Inc.

Germania is known for its all stainless steel design, Bjelland says, adding that the products have a reputation for being simple to use and easy to maintain.

"We will continue to manufacture Germania products, as well as support the marketing, sales and new product development at the Waunakee headquarters location," said Don Calhoun, Alfa Laval Agri's executive vice president for marketing, research and sourcing.

Nothing Works Like A Silo

Sollenberger Silos Corp.

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

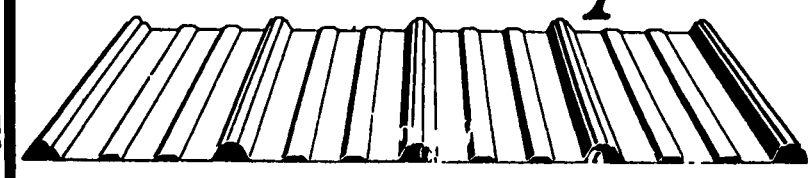
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

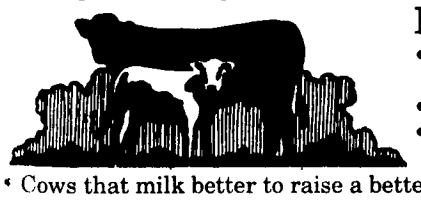
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

CASH ADVANCE PROGRAM
Production Flexibility Contracts

If waiting for your Production Flexibility Contract payments is limiting your growth or holding you back on your plans, there is now a solution The CASH *NOW PURCHASE PROGRAM allows you to sell your future contract payments for cash dollars today The flexible nature of the program allows you to·

- Sell all or part of your contract payments depending on the amount of cash you need now. Since this is not a loan, no payments are due directly from you and the cash you receive now does not show up on your books as a loan.
- Repurchase any remaining future payments due, if your needs change later
- Raise cash. typically within 30-40 days
- Sell payments on both owned and leased land operations
- Limit your primary responsibility to remaining in compliance with the Production Flexibility Contract Program
- Participate in a program that is deliberately designed to allow you full control of your operation. This includes provisions for selling your land, dropping out of the program, buying more qualifying land, and more

To obtain more information and a written price offer, you need to proceed as follows

- Contact us. We will send a one page pricing request form. Provide us payment information about your production flexibility contract on the PFC pricing request form. Since we can buy all or part of your contract payments, you need to specify the amount of capital you need now We will prepare our offer based on your figures.
- Upon acceptance of our offer, we will prepare contract documents for your signature
- Upon receipt of the signed contract documents from you, we will request any additional information needed and submit the necessary document to The Farm Service Agency for their acknowledgement.
- Once The Farm Service Agency acknowledgement has been received and other conditions of closing have been met, the agreed upon funds are wired to your account

It's that simple... To inquire further, call Dick Croyle: toll free 1-888-687-8491 office 717-284-3151 - mobile 717-575-5337.

EBY BUILDS IT

M H Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

Modern turkey farm in profitable, full operation. Two new barns plus a brooder house. Many other buildings including a 2200 sq. ft., 2 story frame dwelling very nicely remodeled. Also: 2 big ponds and stream.
Very active wood shaving business as a sideline!!
This seller has "things in order" to move to a much larger operation out of state. They are, therefore, quite anxious to sell their existing profitable turkey growing operation. Please take a close look...Is this a possibility for you??

Pennsylvania Farmers are talking about

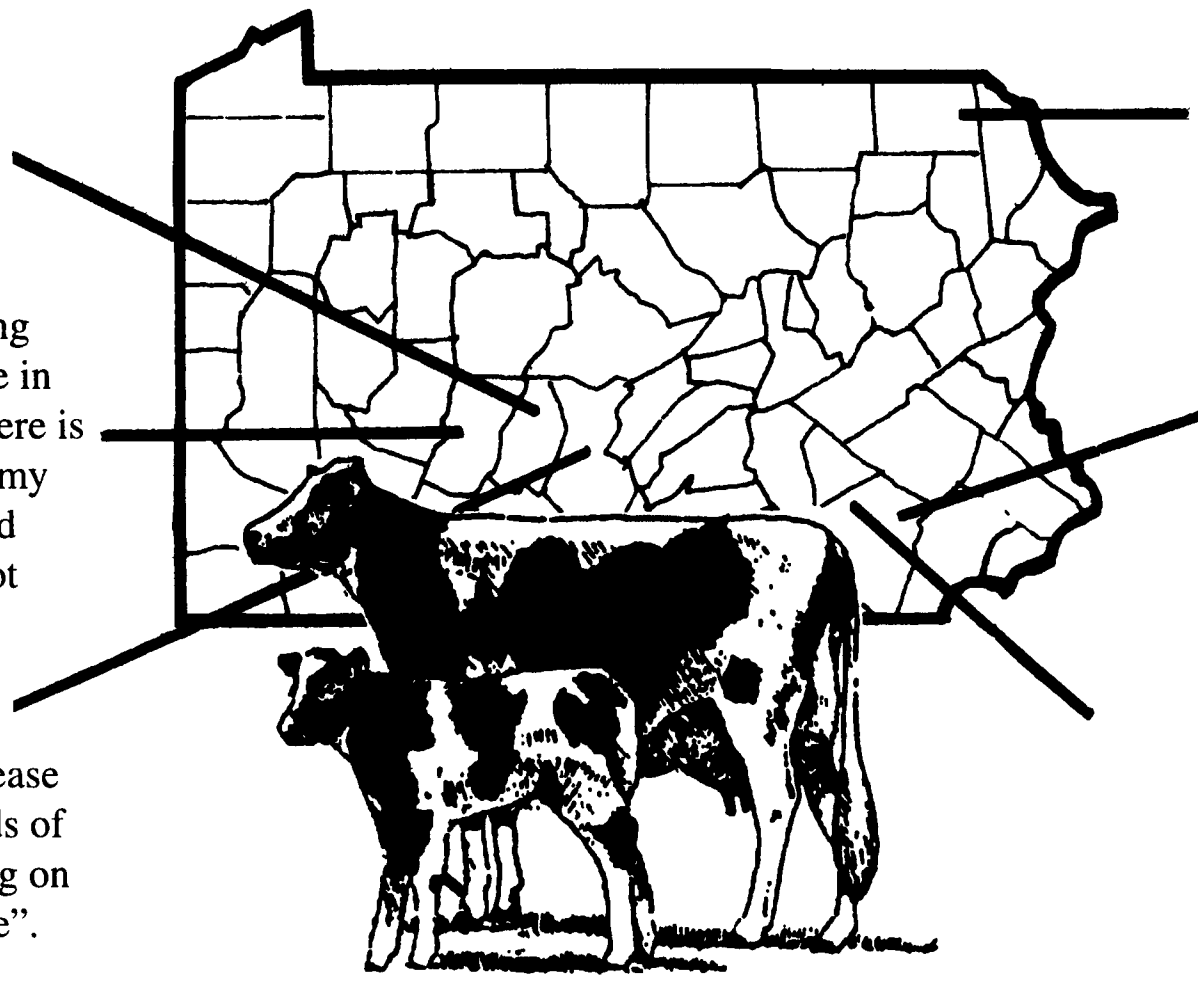
Dairyman's Edge®

PRONUTRIENT

"There was an improvement in dry matter intake".

"I have been using Dairyman's Edge in my TMR and there is no question that my cows stay on feed better, even in hot weather.

"We had an increase of about 4 pounds of milk after starting on Dairyman's Edge".



"Cows started to eat better right after I started Dairyman's Edge".

"Fresh cows really respond to Dairyman's Edge and I've had less cows "off feed".

"I see a lot less grain in the manure when I use Dairyman's Edge".
